Refusal of Recommendation For Japanese Residents in Vancouver is Upheld

Judge Grant Says Basis Was Unfitness of Applicants For Certificates

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—"I simply refused to recommend the applications to the Secretary of State," declared Judge A. Grant here to-day, commenting on an Ottawa dispatch which stated a judge had not the right to refuse recommendation for the granting of naturalization papers to Japanese.

Judge Grant pointed out that in every case the presiding judge in a naturalization court must decide whether the applicant was a "fit and proper person" to be granted naturalization.

"The effect of my decision in this matter is that owing to the non-assimilability of the race, its extraordinary birthrate, the economic problems sure to result, the fact that a Japanese can not expatriate himself and that a person can not possess any more than one nationality at a time, I decided the applicants were not fit and proper persons to be naturalized," said the judge.

Counsel Argue Woman's and H. J. Gray's Trial Violated Constitutional Rights

Daughter of Condemned Woman Defendant in $97,000 Insurance Suit

New York, Jan. 12.—Supreme Court Justice Levy this afternoon vacated the stay of execution he had granted Mrs. Ruth Snyder last night.

PREPARED AT PRISON

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 12.—When information that Judge Levy had vacated the stay of execution granted last night for Mrs. Ruth Snyder, it was announced at the warden's office in Sing Sing prison that the execution would take place at 11 o'clock to-night "as though nothing had happened."

ORDER NOT BINDING

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 12.—Attorney-General Albert Ottinger of New York State to-day announced he had ruled that the stay of execution issued in behalf of Mrs. Ruth Snyder last night by Supreme Court Justice Levy was not binding.

The order, he said, did not act as a stay of execution.

The ruling was announced orally by the Attorney-General, who said he could not give exact quotations until his formal written opinion was ready. The text of the opinion, he said, probably would be made public half an hour later.

As an act of courtesy toward Supreme Court Justice Levy, who granted the stay last night, a deputy from the New York City office of the Attorney-General will go before Justice Levy sometime to-day for an ex parte hearing on a motion to vacate the order staying the execution.

SET FOR TO-NIGHT

The execution of Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray had been set for 11 o'clock to-night.

Justice Levy's order last night was granted pending hearing of the suit brought by the Prudential Life Insurance Company to avoid payment of $97,000 on the life of her husband, Albert Snyder, who was murdered.

The application to Supreme Court Justice Levy was an unexpected move

AFGHANISTAN KING TALKS WITH POPE

Asiatic Monarch, on Tour of Europe, is Received at the Vatican

Rome, Jan. 12.—Clad in a military uniform and unaccompanied, Amanuellah Khan, Amir of Afghanistan, was received by Pope Pius this morning at an audience lasting for half an hour. Entering the presence of the Pope, the Afghanistan monarch bowed deeply and reverently, but neither knelt nor kissed the papal ring.

The Pontiff was much interested in the king and his country and questioned him closely about the people and conditions of living. At the end of the audience he presented the king with a miniature photograph, which had been autographed and placed in a silver frame, and also conferred on the king the Order of the Golden Spur.

Later the Amir spent some time with Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, the two other men discussing Afghanistan affairs.

BOY BANDIT OF TWELVE CAUGHT

Lad in Vancouver Demanded Money From Woman Under Threat of Violence

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—A twelve-year-old boy, who cried for mercy when caught, was taken by police at a rendezvous which had been set in threatening notes sent to a woman living in the west end of this city. The note threatened calamity to her young family unless a sum of money was put in the appointed place, and forbade communication with the police.

The frightened woman did notify the police and an ambush was made for the note writer. About the appointed time a figure appeared and commenced searching the spot. A policeman leaped upon the culprit and found the boy, who soon broke into tears.

He is now at the juvenile detention home awaiting the ruling of Judge H. C. Shaw on his case.

St. Lawrence Plan Now Gains Support

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Reports from Ottawa that, despite previous objections, the Quebec Government may now be favorably inclined toward the St. Lawrence Deep Waterways and the subsidiary power projects, does not surprise Premier Howard Ferguson and other members of the Ontario Government, it is stated at Queen's Park.

The Premier professes to see some signs in Quebec of growing sentiment in favor of the development of the St. Lawrence.

Kurume, Japan, Jan. 12.—Seventeen workmen were killed in a fireworks factory here to-day when an explosion wrecked the building.

5,000 Families In London Flood Area Need Help

London, Jan. 12—The London Daily Mail, after making an investigation of the disaster caused by the Thames flood last Saturday, to-day estimated that at least 1,800 men, women and children were in deplorable circumstances. These were people of the poorer districts below the business section of the city.

They have been trying to clean out their dwellings, but have found it impossible to reoccupy them as the houses are not only soaked with water, but also saturated with creosote, many thousands of gallons of which were carried by the flood from local factories.

The paper estimates that at least 5,000 families need help from the relief fund. For relief $140,000 has been subscribed.

SEARCH MADE FOR MISSING AVIATORS

Wellington, N.Z., Jan. 12.—More than fifty hours overdue, Captain Hood and Lieut. Montcrieff, New Zealand aviators, missing on an aeroplane flight from Sydney, Australia, to New Zealand, to-day were sought on land and sea.

Parties have been sent to the Tararua Mountains on the slim chance that the men may have been forced to descend in the mountainous region. A cruiser was dispatched to the spot in the sea where it is estimated the plane was when its wireless signals ceased.

Observers feel there is little hope of their safety.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY TOMB FOR BODY OF HARDY SUGGESTED

Room in Famous Edifice Offered in Honor of Work of Famous English Writer

Not Indicated Yet Whether Family Wishes Burial in Wessex Country

London, Jan. 12.—Rev. Canon Woodward of Westminster Abbey announced to-day that the family of the late Thomas Hardy would be offered a place within the famous burial place of Great Britain's greatest men for the burial of the body of the novelist.

London, Jan. 12.—London newspapers to-day raised the question as to whether the late Thomas Hardy would be accorded the high honor of burial in Westminster Abbey.

The death of Mr. Hardy, which occurred at his home at Dorchester, Dorset, at 9 o'clock last night, is universally regretted throughout this country.

At Westminster Abbey to-day it was stated the question of the burial of the body of the novelist there had long been debated.

EXPANSION PLANNED OF JOINT PUBLICITY

Washington Organizations Will be Asked to Join Puget Sounders

Expansion of the Puget Sounders and British Columbians Associated joint advertising plan, featuring Washington and British Columbia, will be discussed at the annual meeting to be held at Seattle Saturday.

Efforts will be made to secure this year the co-operation of the Southwest Washington Hotel Men's Association and the White River Valley Publicity Organization, both of which have established funds to draw tourists to the Pacific Coast, the former to cities in South Washington and the latter to towns North of Tacoma.

The Puget Sounders' budget for this year calls for the expenditure of $41,000, a pooled fund contributed by Seattle, Tacoma, Bellingham, Everett, Vancouver and Victoria. It is proposed to spend $29,500 of this in newspaper advertising and the remainder in magazine and other methods of advertising.

R. H. B. Ker, president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, and George I. Warren, publicity commissioner, will attend the meeting.

TWO ONTARIO GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH

No Hope Held For Recovery of Father; Mother Also Badly Burned

Brantford, Ont., Jan. 12.—Grace, aged three, and Vernon, two, children of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jackson of Delhi, Ont., were burned to death to-day. The father is so badly burned that no hope is held out for him and the mother is in a critical condition, following a fire which destroyed their home early to-day. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Jacksons came to Delhi from Lorraine, Ohio, only a few months ago.

Awakened by smoke, Mrs. H. Bennett, a neighbor, was the first to notice the fire, and she and her husband made their way into the blazing dwelling and were able to bring Mr. and Mrs. Jackson out. They were unable to reach the children.

While they were assisting Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, the Bennett home caught fire, but they were able to rescue their three children and carry most of their furniture out before the fire completed the destruction of the two houses.

NAVAL PLANS OF U.S. ARE FOR TWENTY YEARS

Wilbur Tells Committee of Congress Ultimate Outlay Should be $3,300,000,000

General Board Would Replace Battleships When Permitted By Washington Treaty

Washington, Jan. 12.—Secretary Curtis D. Wilbur disclosed to-day before the House naval committee that the Navy Department had drafted a comprehensive twenty-year building programme, of which the $725,000,000 programme already announced was only a part.

While he did not make public the larger programme, the Secretary of the Navy testified under questioning that it provided for the replacement of battleships as soon as this would be possible under the Washington Arms Treaty. He said the annual expenditure would be about $168,000,000 a year, or a total of approximately $3,300,000,000.

Within a few years, he added, replacements of capital ships under the treaty would be necessary and the programme had been formulated with that in view.

U.S. PEACE NOTE SENT TO FRANCE

Washington Government Wants All War Outlawed, Paris is Informed

Washington, Jan. 12.—France's counter-suggestion in the discussion of a proposed treaty for perpetual peace that the pact condemn only "aggressive war" has not the approval of the United States Government and the State Department has so replied to Paris.

The new turn in the discussions is not considered by the State Department to bar the way to ultimate negotiation of a treaty between the two counries and ultimately with all powers, declaring against war as a weapon in international relations. There have been indications that virtually all other phases of the proposed pact are acceptable to both sides and there is confidence here the remaining differences will be worked out.

OPTIMISM VOICED

Paris, Jan. 12.—The French and United States views on the proposed pact to outlaw war still differ, it was said at the Foreign Office to-day, but the countries are coming closer together.

Secretary Kellogg's latest note still is being decoded, but the comment from Ambassador Claudel which accompanied it caused officials to continue optimistic.

TROTZKY GROUP SENT TO REVOLUTIONARY SCHOOLS IN SIBERIA

London, Jan. 12—A dispatch to The London Daily Mail from Riga, Latvia, quotes the newspaper Evening Moscow as saying important leaders of the Trotzky opposition have been expelled from the Moscow district because they criticized the Soviet Government.

Some of the oppositionists were ordered to distant districts, but this does not necessarily mean they were banished, says the newspaper, whose report is significant because of its relations with Moscow.

The Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party merely sent the oppositionists to revolutionary schools in Siberia and elsewhere, states the paper. Some of them, it was explained, had already graduated in one or more courses in Siberia, but their veneer of revolution was so thin that they quickly forgot essential conmunistic characteristics and must now go to school again.

STORES IN THE BUSINESS SECTION OF TOWN ARE RAZED IN EARLY BLAZE

Three Hundred Men Fight Flames Which This Morning Gutted Berquist Block; Victoria Firemen Called Out to Assist; Damage Is Estimated at $30,000

Fire of unknown origin, which for hours threatened to sweep the entire town of Sidney early this morning, was checked by 300 firefighters working under Constable W. H. Hadley of the British Columbia Provincial Police. Discovered at about 4.25 o'clock, the blaze was well started in the Berquist Building before hose lines could be brought into play. In less than three hours the fire had burned itself out, after leveling the two buildings which composed the Berquist block. It was only prevented from spreading by the efforts of the army of workers who battled the flames.

There were four stores on the ground floor of the razed building, and a furnished auditorium and dance hall comprising the second story. No portion of the stock of the stores was saved. The following is a list of the business places burned and the approximate values of the stock in each:

Government Liquor Store, $3,300; insurance, $3,200.

Arthur Harvey, butcher, $3,000; insurance, about $2,000.

John Gilman, poolroom and barbershop, $5,000, insurance, $3,000.

Harry McKilligan, grocer, $6,000; insurance, $3,000.

The Berquist Building, with its furnishings, was valued at approximately $11,000. Insurance of $2,000 was carried on each of the two Berquist buildings, Mrs. Berquist, owner of the place, told The Times.

At midnight last night the Sidney Social Club, which had enjoyed a card party in the social hall of the Berquist Building, left the place. Constable Hadley, while making a late tour of the town, passed the Berquist Building and found "all was well" there, he said.

EARLY CALL

At 4.25 a.m. he was aroused by a resident who informed him that there was a fire in the Berquist Building. Constable Hadley was at the scene of the fire inside five minutes. There was a handful of men there ahead of him. With these he set about saving what goods could be taken from the next-door building, a wooden frame structure housing a shoemaker's stock and drygoods.

In an alley-way beside the burning building an automobile had been left for the night. This Constable Hadley and four others attempted to save while another gang of workers toiled with two fire hose, connected under the constable's supervision and directed upon the fringe of the fire.

OVERWHELMING HEAT

"The heat was so intense that a man could not stand against it twenty feet away," said Constable Hadley. "But those fellows who came to me and volunteered to assist were fine. Five of us went in after that automobile. We could not start it. So we had to push it out into the street and out of danger. When we were through we were pretty well 'all in.'"

NO WORD COMES FROM PACIFIC SHIP WHICH CALLED AID

U.S. Coastguard Cutter Searching For Ss. Griffco 300 Miles From Flattery

Call Last Night Picked up at Gonzales Heights Station; Silence Followed

Seattle, Jan. 12.—Fears of disaster to the steamship Griffco, reported to distress off the Oregon coast, arose to-day as a dozen radio stations attempted to break through the wall of silence which seemingly had enveloped the Honolulu-bound craft. SOS calls from the 1,463-ton freighter were intercepted here at 10.30 last night and again at 11.30. After the second distress message, the radio of the steamship apparently went dead.

STORM REPORTED

Despite almost continuous efforts of a dozen shore stations to communicate with the ship, her radio remained silent this morning. Conjecture arose as to whether some disaster aboard the ship might have prevented transmission of further calls for help. The weather bureau reported a storm in the approximate vicinity of the steamship, estimated to be 300 miles southwest of Cape Flattery, Washington.

In her distress signals last night, the Griffco failed to transmit her position and gave no indication of the nature of her trouble.

Before daybreak the cutter Haida of the United States coastguard put out of Seattle under forced draught to search for the distressed ship.

The Griffco left Port Townsend, early Tuesday morning for Honolulu to be delivered to the Inter-island Steam Navigation Company, which recently purchased her from the Nelson Line. Captain Herbert Martin of Honolulu was in charge of the ship, which was said here to have Thomas Carroll of Honolulu, port engineer for the Inter-island company, as her only passenger.

The crew of twenty-three was enlisted here.

POSITION SOUGHT

In addition to sending the Haida to the aid of the Griffco, coastguard officials ordered the cutter Snohomish to stand by at Astoria.

City Police Have Merry Time Trying To Capture Calf

Sauntering down Government Street, quite unconcerned and oblivious of all attention it was causing, a young calf led city police officers a merry chase this morning. The animal was finally captured by motorcycle James Strong, with the assistance of Constable Henry Jones, and after much persuasion taken to the police station. There it was tethered to a post by Patrol Driver Shakespeare.

Late this morning the calf was claimed by Thomas Mould, a Saanich butcher, who told the police the animal had jumped from his truck while bringing it into the city.

MALAHAT BOULDER NEARLY SWEEPS MAN IN CAR TO DEATH

P. R. Fleming, insurance man of Victoria, and the closed motor car in which he was driving down from Alberni, were nearly swept to destruction over the precipice to a drop of 500 feet when a boulder crashed down on the Malahat Highway, about fifteen miles north of Victoria, last evening. Despite the rainstorm, Mr. Fleming was able to draw up his car and turn it just in time to miss the boulder.

Loosened by the heavy rains of the last two days, the boulder hurtled down from one of the hill tops, not stopping until it reached the highway.

Workmen were to-day getting the boulder off the road, its weight being estimated at three tons.

ISLAND'S ROADS BULK LARGE IN 1928 PROGRAMME

Sutherland Confers With Engineers in Shaping Construction Plans

Extensive Improvements to Highway System Proposed For Present Year

Vancouver Island road requirements bulk large in the programme of highway improvements for 1928, which is being shaped by Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works and engineers of his department from all parts of the Province in conference at the Parliament Buildings this week.

The West Coast Road and extensive improvements on the Island Highway will form some of the most important work to be undertaken by the department in the programme which is in the making now.

So as to give detailed attention to the road needs of all parts of the Province, Dr. Sutherland has adopted the plan of interviewing two or three engineers of adjoining districts together instead of conferring with all officials at one time. R. M. Taylor of Kamloops, H. C. Anderson of Merritt and R. M. Corning, of Salmon Arm, three adjoining districts, are here to-day and representatives of the northern part of the Province are expected Monday.

PLAN NEW LOAN

Plans for the expenditure of millions of dollars on road construction will be based on the detailed recommendations which the engineers will lay before Dr. Sutherland and officials of his department this week. After hearing the views of the engineers on road needs,

London, Jan. 12—It was authoritatively stated here to-day that negotiations had been begun between the Eastern Telegraphs and the Marconi Company which may lead to a working agreement.

If an amalgamation should be effected, it would mean the combination of two competitive systems of communication, the cables of the Eastern and the beam system wireless of Marconi.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well-known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia, and not only will the pain vanish, but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. Your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

ANONYMOUS GIVER SWELLS CATHEDRAL FUNDS BY $1,000

Unemployed Working Man Gives Two Days' Labor; Construction Resumed

An anonymous gift of $1,000 to the new Christ Church Cathedral was received this morning by Sir Richard Lake, honorary treasurer of the building fund.

A well-known commercial man informed the building committee of his intention of continuing for a further period subscriptions which he has paid regularly for two years, and a man who has only part-time work stated this morning: "I've no money, but I must do something to help the new cathedral along; I'll give two days' work."

Incidents like these are encouraging the building committee in their hope that funds will be forthcoming to complete the nave, for which the committee issued an appeal recently for $100,000.

WORK RESUMED

After a brief temporary stoppage, due to the inclement weather, construction work on the new cathedral was resumed this morning. Stone-cutters took up their task of preparing the blocks of Newcastle Island stone for the walling, and masons continued work on the baptistery, which is now up to the springing line of the ceiling. In a few days it is expected that the outside wall of the baptistery can be finished.

Stone for the arches over the great doorway in the west front is ready to be set in place, and other groups of workmen are engaged in the walling on the north and south sides.

In the interior of the building, practically all pillers are ready for their capitals, and this morning concrete was being poured for the western piers of the main tower, which will form the east end of the nave.

MRS. LEGGE-WILLIS

Stage Comedy at Crystal Garden on Friday Night

On Friday evening the Co-optimist Comedy Company will present a revival of one of the most delightfully funny stage comedies ever written. It is no less than the ever-popular "A Pair of Spectacles," John Hare's most notable success. It is, of course, as much of a classic in its way as "Charlie's Aunt" or "The Private Secretary." Mr. Legge-Willis in the part of Benjamin Goldfinch; Richard Blomfield in the character of his close-fisted brother from Sheffield; Mrs. Legge-Willis as his wife; Noel Jones as his son and Derek Browne as his nephew, are eminently qualified to do ample justice to this classic of the comedy stage. Friend Lorimer will be played by Evelyn Mitchell and the important part of his daughter will be enacted by Miss Margaret Hopkins. The final member of the augmented cast for this special occasion is Stephen Langton, who makes his first appearance this week as a member of the Co-optimist Company. The play will be followed by two hours dancing in which the audience will be invited to join.

Dorchester, Eng., Jan. 12—Thomas Hardy, regarded by many as the greatest English writer of his period and one of the last of the great Victorians, died at his home here at 9 o'clock last night, in the countryside where he had lived most of his life among characters and scenes depicted in his books. He was in his eighty-eighth year.

The novelist's last illness began with a chill December 12. The daily reports of his varying fight to regain his health were read by millions in many parts of the world, for the readers of his works are to be found wherever English speaking people live. His condition was alternately hopeful and critical. His advanced age told heavily against him toward the last, however, and after optimistic reports yesterday, the end came last night.

DIED AT HOME

Mr. Hardy died in surroundings he no doubt would have chosen for his end. The historic countryside of his home was to him the most loved of spots.

More than forty years ago the novelist planned and built a handsome and substantial red brick and stone country home, which he had used as his home and sanctum ever since. The estate is in a beautiful undulating countryside about one mile from the ancient Roman town of Dorcester. When he selected the site it was part of the Duchy of Cornwall, and belonged to the then Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, but through the intervention of the Prince himself, Mr. Hardy was allowed to purchase two acres.

WORK OF LAST YEARS

Mr. Hardy at no time deserted the home he loved so well. His declining years were spent largely in composing verse in his stury, from the windows of which he could see his trees, and the birds he had encouraged to build in them.

Whether any of Mr. Hardy's recent poetry will ever be given to the public is problematical. Mr. Hardy was said to have written it for himself and his friends, feeling he had completed his life work.

In his later years, Mrs. Hardy, his second wife, much younger than himself, was the novelist's secretary, and encouraged him in poetic work. She herself is a writer, but abandoned most of her own work in order to remain loyally and constantly at her husband's side.

A well-known man of letters of the United States once called on Thomas Hardy at Max Gate, his home in Dorset. The Englishman talked sparingly and listened more. Later, the American was asked his impression of the noted author and he replied with one word—"Stony."

Hardy himself might have given the same answer, for until the last he held to what had been termed his "classic pessimism," a shy, shrinking, self-effacing little man, unaware of his eminence.

So unassuming in his manner was Hardy that H. G. Wells on first beholding him, exclaimed:

"What? That little grey man?"

With all his shyness, however, Hardy wrote in a bold, striking manner. His view of women, it has been said, was more French than English in that he saw all that is irresponsible for good and evil in a woman's character, all that is untrustworthy in her brain and will, all that is alluring in her variability. He was her apologist, but always with a reserve of private judgment.

This attitude, carried out with relentless sincerity, at times proved too much for Victorian sentiments.

PASSAGES OMITTED

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles," which drew enormous crowds when staged in London in 1925, was severely blue-pencilled when first published years before as a serial. "Jude, the Obscure," (1895), uncannily fascinating to some, but judged by others as Hardy's most thoughtful and least popular book, also underwent considerable excision.

As a lover and student of English rural life, with over three-score years of literary activity and a score of novels, poems and dramas to his credit, he held a unique and enviable position among his contemporaries.

BEST KNOWN NOVELS

His best known novels are "Far from the Madding Crowd" (1874), "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" (1891), "The Return of the Native" (1878), "The Mayor of Casterbridge" (another name for Dorchester) 1884-85) and "The Woodlanders" (1886-87).

"The Dynasts," which many hold to be Hardy's supreme achievement, is an epic drama telling the story of Napoleon's career in three parts, thirteen acts and 130 scenes.

His "Satires of Circumstance" are praised by many as his most musically and suggestively beautiful poems.

BORN IN JUNE, 1840

Born June 2, 1840, Hardy came of good old English stock. On both sides his ancestors had been settled in the west of England for centuries. Educated at Dorchester and King's College, London, he devoted his early years to architecture and won the medal of the Royal Institute of British Architecture for a professional essay.

"Under the Greenwood Tree" was the work which, in the year 1872, first attracted attention to Hardy's literary ability. Although this was not a great financial success, it brought him in tough with George Meredith and other editors who encouraged him to write. It was "Far from the Madding Crowd" which established him in the front rank of literary men of his time.

TURNED TO FICTION

When he was twenty-seven, Hardy gave up living in London, where he had resided five years, and turned to write prose fiction, for the setting of which he chose naturally his own part of England.

In a ten-mile circle round Dorchester lived half Hardy's characters and stand half his scenes. Most of his short stories and nearly all his poems fall within the circle, and parts of the landscapes depicted in them are recognizable to the present day.

These descriptions, however, were done by a master hand. Hardy felt the places and the people; they were part of him. Of his "Wessex Poems" he said they were "in a large degree dramatic or personative in conception."

This "local color" was and remained the atmosphere of Hardy's life from youth upwards, just as the hedges and woods of Warwickshire lay over in the background of Shakespeare's mind.

WROTE WAR POEMS

Again in his war poems it was revealed how sure and penetrating was Hardy's insight into the real Englishmen; the man of the land who has always been the backbone of the British army. His rustics have been compared with Shakespeare's; he had the Shakespearean sense of their placid vegetation by the side of hurrying animal life to which they act as part of the chorus, with an unconscious wisdom in their close, narrow and undistracted view of things.

"For my own part," Hardy once commented, "I think—though all writers may not agree with me—that the shortest way to good prose is by the route of good verse. The apparent paradox—I cannot remember who first expressed it—that the best poetry is the best prose, ceases on examination to be a paradox and becomes a truism."

MANY HONORS

Honors came to Hardy in profusion in the course of his long career. Most English universities conferred upon him the degree of doctor of literature; he was a gold medallist of the Royal Society of Literature, and the Order of Merit was conferred on him in 1910.

His home for many years was a shrine for numerous worshippers of his art. The Prince of Wales visited him in 1923. Here one of the last great Victorians spent his days in seclusion among the beautiful rural scenes he loved so well. His love for animals was great; he strongly disapproved of torture sports, chaining of dogs and caging of birds.

TWICE MARRIED

Hardy was twice married. His first wife, who was Miss Emma Lavinia Gifford, whom he married in 1874, died in 1912. Two years later, in his seventy-fourth year, he married Miss Florence Emily Dugdale, a woman of thirty, who was an accomplished writer of children's stories and for ten years had been his secretary.

Both Hardy and his wife were justices of the peace for Dorset.

PROSE AND POETRY

Among Hardy's prose works are: "Desperate Remedies," 1871; "A Pair of Blue Eyes," 1872-73; "Hand of Ethelberta," 1876; "The Trumpet-Major," 1879; "Two on a Tower," 1882; "Wessex Tales," collected 1888; "A Group of Noble Dames," 1891; "Life's Little Ironies," collected 1894; "The Pursuit of the Well-Beloved," serially in 1892, revised and rewritten as "The Well-Beloved in 1897; "A Changed Man," etc., collected, 1913.

His works in verse include: "Wessex Poems," written in 1865 and onwards, 1898; "Poems of the Past and Present," 1901; "Time's Laughingstocks and Other Verses," 1909; "Selected Poems, 1916; "Moments of Vision" 1917; "Late Lyrics," 1922; "Queen of Cornwall,' a play, 1923 and "Human Shows," 1925. In 1919 a complete edition of his poetical works till then was published. A limited Mellstock edition of his poetical works was issued in 1920.

CITIZENSHIP RULING SOUND, STATES JUDGE

CONSUL'S OPINION

Vancouver, Jan. 12—Hon. T. Fukuma, Japanese consul for Western Canada agrees with the Ottawa authorities in their statement that Judge David Grant violated provisions of the Naturalization Act in refusing citizenship to Japanese because they are not assimilable, he stated to-day.

No official action is contemplated by the consulate here at the present time, the Japanese who were refused citizenship having lodged no protest with consular officials.

The Ottawa dispatch of last night referred to above said:

"The action of Judge Grant of Vancouver in refusing to recommend several Japanese applicants for Canadian citizenship on the ground that Japanese were not assimilable in the Anglo-Saxon race was a violation of the provisions of the Naturalization Act, and in so doing the Vancouver judge exceeded his duties as these are governed by the Act. This was the comment today of high officials of the Department of the Secretary of State when their attention was drawn to a Vancouver dispatch quoting Judge Grant's decision.

"It was pointed out that the Naturalization Act laid down no requirements from an applicant as to whether his racial origin was of a nature that would make him assimilable or not. It was further declared by the officials here that the Act stated plainly that grant of a certificate of naturalization was in the absolute direction of the Secretary of State. A judge's report, the officials declared, should be based upon an inquiry into the applicant's fitness and qualifications as these were governed by the Act. It should deal with legally proved facts and not opinions, it was stated."

SNYDER EXECUTION STAY CANCELLED

on the part of Mrs. Snyder's attorneys, as it had been announced a writ of habeas corpus would be sought in a Federal court.

DESTRUCTION OF DEFENCE

The application was made in behalf of Lorrain Snyder, who has been made defendant in the insurance suit, on the ground that the execution of her mother would destroy the defence.

RIGHTS DECLARED VIOLATED

New York, Jan. 12.—Samuel L. Miller, attorney for Henry Judd Gray, announced this morning he would apply to-day for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Gray, who is sentenced to die in the electric hair at Sing Sing prison to-night. The writ, he said, was signed by Gray's mother and set forth that the condemned man's constitutional rights had been violated by a joint trial with Mrs. Ruth Snyder, who was convicted with him on a charge of having murdered her husband.

At the same time Mr. Miller announced he had wired Governor Smith of New York States, asking for a stay of execution for Gray for as long a time as Mrs. Snyder might be granted one.

"It would be fearfully unfair to permit any advantage to be given Mrs. Snyder," the telegram read, "permitting her to enjoy the additional days of life which Gray could not also enjoy."

WOMAN LOSES HOPE

Ossining, N.Y., Jan. 12.—Attorney A. Lonardo for Mrs. Ruth Snyder, said he found her despondent when he visited her to-day.

"I am a young woman," she said. "I am young and in the prime of life. I am young and they are going to kill me. It doesn't seem right. I don't want to die. Oh, I shall go all right. I'll have to go, but I seem so young and so full of life."

"You are not going to die yet," the attorney said he told her. "We are going to get this writ."

The writ would refer to violation of her constitutional rights by joint trial with Henry Judd Gray.

The application also claims the original trial was "vitiated by mob dominance."

GRAY IS RESIGNED

"Gray is absolutely calm and resigned," William J. Millard, one of his attorneys, said. "He is looking forward to the worst without making any objections."

ISLAND'S ROADS BULK LARGE IN 1928 PROGRAMME

the Public Works Department will frame its annual budget for the approval of the Legislature.

The size of a new road loan to be floated this year has not been fixed yet but it will run into several millions, following a loan of $4,000,000 for roads and bridges approved at the last session of the Legislature. As usual the loan will be financed by gasoline taxes, of which there is a sufficient sum on hand to cover a large flotation.

MANY ROADS CONSIDERED

Chief among the projects under discussion at the engineers' conference here as part of the 1928 programme are the West Coast Road on Vancouver Island, the completion of the Cariboo Road with the opening of the Lytton-Spences Bridge link, the opening of the new Revelstoke-Golden link in the Transprovincial Highway in co-operation with the Federal Government, the extension of the main highway west of Hazelton towards the coast and the continuance of the search for a road rout to Prince Rupert from the interior. In addition to these major projects the Public Works Department has in view many smaller additions to the highway system and improvements to existing roads. It is also looking forward to the construction of a new road to Alberta via the Yellowhead Pass by one of several alternative routes, but whether the commencement of this scheme during 1928 is being considered has not been made known yet.

NEW BRIDGES

The annual programme will include many new bridges, large and small, but for them part of the $1,000,000 set aside for bridges last year is still available. Big bridges across the Bulkley River at Hagueiget Canyon, across the Fraser at Quesnel and North Bend, across the Thompson at Savona and across the Kootenay near Wardner, all form part of the programme which will be under way if not completed during this year.

SIDNEY IS MENACED BY DISASTROUS FIRE

That was only the beginning of the fight. A little east of the Berquist Building was a shoemaker's store from which some of the stock had been removed. To the south side was the Halsett's motion picture house, also a wooden frame structure. These two buildings Constable Hadley was at pains to save. The work of his men was concentrated upon them.

For the first half-hour of the struggle against the rising tide of fire there were only about twenty-five men engaged in the work. Constable Hadley occasionally went to the groups standing close by and ordered fresh gangs to help with the hose lines. Those who held the nozzles against the flames had to face blinding heat and needed rest spells. The men were quick to respond to orders. Fresh crews manned the hose every few minutes and a continual stream of water kept the fire out of the motion picture house and the shoemaker's shop.

NEW MENACE

While this work went on and the whole of Sidney awakened, dressed and came to the fire on the run, owners of surrounding buildings began to feel anxiety. The fire was in no way diminishing. The two powerful water jets could make no impression upon it. Every minute found the flames mounting higher and the heat becoming more and more intense. Across the streets which run past the site of the building, for it stood at the intersection of Beacon Avenue and Fourth Street, paint blistered on the fronts of stores. Earl Mackenzie's garage front was scorched and the fresh paint dropped from it before the plate glass windows finally cracked and fell in.

"I brushed those windows once," said a resident, "and my bare hand touched them. The heat burned me. Five minutes later the glass collapsed and shattered in a million pieces."

BREEZE DIES

At 5 o'clock a pillar of fire roared up through the roof of the Berquist Building and the structure's interior was a mass of flame. A northeast breeze was fanning the fire. It still grew in volume and in intensity of heat.

Not until then, when it seemed that the last hope of saving the adjacent buildings was gone, did George Cochran, President of the Sidney Board of Trade, send in a fire alarm to Victoria. Chief Vernon Stewart and a squad of firemen with him, raced over the highway to the scene of the blaze. When they arrived, however, the wind had changed into the southeast and had died down.

ARMY OF FIGHTERS

While Chief Stewart and his men were yet upon their way, Constable Hadley's force of fire-fighters had swelled to over 300 men. At 4.45 a.m. the Sidney Mill's warning whistle called men tumbling from their quarters and many of them went straight to the fire and placed themselves under Constable Hadley's orders. Already farmers and storekeepers were there. Fishermen and Chinese laundrymen joined the ranks. Every man available was conscripted and every man worked desperately to save the adjacent buildings.

Where water could be obtained, the roofs of surrounding houses were kept under a shower and the fronts of buildings drenched. It was this work which saved many of them. Constable Hadley, experienced in fire fighting both in forest and town, for it was he who saved the Alert Bay settlement some time ago when it was threatened by flames, received high praise from Chief Stewart for the manner in which he undertook the fight and for his success in saving property.

Mrs. Kate Berquist, for many years a resident of Sidney, and owner of the Berquist Building, thanked Constable Hadley. "I thank you, sir," she said. "You did wonderful work."

HOUSE OWNERS AFRAID

Mrs. E. L. Hearn, store owner, whose home was about a hundred feet from the roaring building, described the fire as she saw it from a distance, while other members of her household kept a stream of water playing over the roof of her store.

The fire, when she first saw it, appeared to be centred in the liquor store, although there was smoke pouring out of the upstairs at the time. It spread with lightning-like rapidity. In a surprisingly few minutes it was blazing through the other stores in the lower part of the building and had reached the roof. Men darted in and out of near-by houses piling furniture and valuables in the street. Others worked with hose lines.

By 6 o'clock the roof had caved in, she related, the walls had collapsed and the corner where the Berquist Building had stood was a blazing, red patch of heat. No one could go near it, but the fire hose still played against the scorched buildings near at hand only ten feet from that which had been razed. Into the midst of this came Chief Stewart to assist in the last work which was progressing.

"His efforts were invaluable," said Mr. Cochrane.

A report issued early this morning stated that none of the fire-fighters were injured. Some received scorched hands and faces, minor bruises and torn clothing, but among the three hundred odd men who went into action not one serious casualty was recorded.

Provincial Police officers from headquarters left for Sidney this morning to investigate the origin of the fire.

IS IT BLUFF?

WE ARE TOLD IN A DISPATCH FROM Washington that the $800,000,000 which the United States proposes to spend on naval craft in the next five years is regarded as "only a starter." Secretary Wilbur is in favor of a twenty-year programme that would provide forty-three ten-ton cruisers and a host of smaller fighting craft. That would involve an expenditure of about $3,300,000,000.

In the face of these developments the world will find it difficult just how to estimate President Coolidge's recent proposal for a treaty to outlaw all war as "an instrument of national policy." This is how the situation strikes The Baltimore Sun:

> If Mr. Coolidge does not mean to start the nation upon a huge programme of naval expansion, he is bluffing in a manner that is at once derogatory to the dignity of the American people and evil in its world influence. If, on the other hand, Mr. Coolidge actually means to start this nation upon the greatest programme of naval expansion ever contemplated, save on the very eve of the World War, he, at one stroke, gives the lie to his own statements of naval conditions and policies repeatedly preached to the American people, and undertakes to make this nation the pacemaker in a mad race of armaments—a mad race started before America, most fortunate of all nations involved in the World War, has paid the half of its war debt.
> One year ago, President Coolidge in his message to Congress said: "When it is considered that no navy in the world, with one exception, approaches ours and none surpasses it, it can not be said that our nation is neglecting its national defence."

This was written before details of the programme were made public. What The Sun expected, however, Secretary Wilbur now has announced. Contrast it with what Great Britain has done, without saying very much about it, towards curtailing armaments. Her programme for 1927 in the cruiser line was three; she decided to proceed with one only. We do not believe that the United States will proceed with the Wilbur proposal in its entirety. But yesterday's announcement will encourage those nations which still regard war as practical and up-to-date politics to look to their own plans. As bluff, if bluff it is, it is extremely dangerous.

FRANCE AND PEACE

IN ANOTHER PART OF THIS ISSUE WE publish a letter from Comte Jean Suzannet, a citizen of Victoria who saw much service and distinguished himself in the French army during the Great War, in which he criticizes some comments that appeared in this column recently in connection with the reply of the Government of France to the Kellogg suggestion for the outlawing of war "as an instrument of national policy." We took note of the fact that France replied she was willing to accept a proposal to abolish all "war of aggression." Our editorial was headed, "Beware of Words," and implied that no nation going to war ever considered itself the aggressor, the suggestion being that the term easily could be twisted to suit anybody.

We welcome the comments which Comte Suzannet has sent to us and we assure him that we recognize to the full the sacrifices which France made in the Great War; we recognize also the value of the contributions which such men as M. Briand have made to the cause of peace in the last few years. But we, like any other Canadian newspaper which considers that the international policy of France at times is not in the best interests of world harmony, reserve to ourselves the right of fair criticism which is the prerogative of newspapers in all British countries. May we point out, moreover, that criticism of French policy in the press of British countries has been much more fair than the criticism of British policy in the French press, which in some instances, has been more vicious than its attacks upon Germany.

We agree, of course, that complete disarmament at once as a cure for war is neither possible nor practical. An armed force for a nation is just as necessary as a municipal police force. What we and all other peace-loving peoples desire to see brought about, however, is a condition by which nations, instead of flying at one another's throats, shall agree to settle their differences by referring them to an international court of justice, just as private citizens refer theirs to either civil or criminal tribunals. Our objection to an international pact to outlaw all "war of aggression" is based upon the virtual impossibility of any agreement as to the culprit; but more particularly because such a proposal bows to the theory that war is inevitable; in which case, war having broken out, all understandings and agreements go by the board.

On the other hand, we do not agree that France, as a nation, has gone as far along the path towards establishing a better condition of affairs among the nations of the world as she might have done. On the assumption that she still regards Germany as her natural enemy, notwithstanding the pacts of Locarno, let us see what her policy has been in regard to that country. She has entered into treaties of mutual defence with Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, and Jugoslavia. This means that there is a French zone of influence stretching from the Baltic to the Adriatic which completely hems in the Germanic bloc. We submit that this policy differs in no respect from the policies that produced the condition which has been responsible for most wars. It is the principle of the old balance of power. It demands fortifications, frontier guards, and permits no nation to gaze across at its neighbor unless it shall be over a fortress wall. This is not the way to peace; it certainly is not the way to develop the will to peace. Is it not a policy, that, if persisted in, will provoke Germany, with her greater population, her industrial and commercial genius, to take her revenge on France?

We firmly believe the impulses which move the majority of the French people are just the same as those which move the peace-loving people of Canada; but Comte Suzannet will recall that it was France, dominated by certain militaristic elements, which desired to possess the left bank of the Rhine, which was responsible for Britain failing to keep her bargain with the Arabs, which invaded the Ruhr, which objected to an extension of the disarmament proposals at the Washington Conference, which refused to attend the Geneva Naval Conference, which still has a large army in being. In the light of these facts, therefore, we are still of the opinion that France could have done, could still do, more in the interests of peace. At least she could agree, with all the other great powers, to outlaw war as "an instrument of national policy."

PENALIZING LOCAL INVESTMENT

IF AN OUTSIDE CONCERN HAD GONE to the City Council and told it that it proposed to invest $130,000 in an enterprise in Victoria, it very probably would have been offered a free site; it certainly would have obtained certain taxation exemptions, and no doubt water either for nothing or at a nominal cost. But when the Gorge Vale Golf Club, having bought its site for $60,000, asks for a water supply, not for nothing, but at a reasonable rate, so that it might proceed with the expenditure of another $70,000 of local capital to convert it into a golf course, the Council turns it down. It ought to alter its attitude without delay.

THOMAS HARDY

THOMAS HARDY'S FIRST PUBLISHED contribution to the literature of his time appeared two years before Thackeray ended his brilliant career. A few years later Dickens finished his course. Hardy's literary life, therefore, embraced a period which was associated with many of the greatest names in British literature, particularly with that striking galaxy which flourished during the last forty years of the Victorian era. He was thus an active contemporary of Carlyle, Ruskin, Meredith, George Eliot, Robert Browning, Macaulay, Disraeli, the Arnolds, Tennyson and Swinburne, just to mention a few whose memories are immortal. He himself eventually became, like them, an outstanding figure in the hall of literary fame, towering over those who later appeared upon the scene and among whom he preserved his supremacy to the end of his active life as a man of letters. Although he had no large personal contact with the outside world and found the scenes for most of his works within the borders of his own country, his name became a household term all over the globe. Full of years, venerated by millions, a really great man has gone to his rest leaving a memory that never will fade.

Synthetic Leadership

By GLENN FRANK

Former editor of the Century Magazine

(Copyright)

We may be suffering from a shortage of statesmanlike leaders, but we are evolving a type of synthetic leader who often renders a service out of all proportion to his personal abilities.

The idea of the synthetic leader is not new.

I find a finely etched portrait of him in Balthasar Gracian's Oraculo Manual, from which I quoted yesterday. This wise Jesuit, with his uncanny insight into the realities of conduct, says:

"It is a privilege of the might to surround themselves with the champions of intellect.

"'Tis a rare greatness to make use of the wise, and far exceeds the barbarous taste of Tigranes, who had a fancy for captive monarchs as his servants.

"It is a novel kind of supremacy to have as servants by skill those who by nature are our masters.

"There is a remarkable cleverness in studying without study, in getting much by means of many, and through them all to become wise.

"Afterwards you speak in the council chamber on behalf of many, and as many sages speak through your mouth as were consulted beforehand, you thus obtain the fame of an oracle by others' toil."

Here, out of the seventeenth century, is the suggestion of the practice now prevalent among great business men and other men of affairs of having a staff of super-secretaries who do the research and writing for their major public pronouncements.

There is much joshing of the man of affairs who hires his speeches and his article written by experts, as if it were practicing a kind of dishonesty.

I am not sure but that the practice is a promising one.

Leadership needs two things—something to say and a sounding board that will insure range and reach to the things when they are said.

Happy the man of affairs who speaks out of a rich store of personal knowledge and with a clear and convincing style; but even when the man of affairs lacks the detailed knowledge and the persuasive style, he has the sounding board, and the race reaps the benefit if he uses this sounding board to give range and reach to the research and writing of the obscure scholar whose knowledge and art might otherwise die with him.

These synthetic leaders are not adequate substitutes for great statesmen, but they are a useful sort nevertheless.

GORGE VALE GOLF CLUB

To the Editor:—Your paper has given a great deal of prominence to the discussion at the City Council Meeting on Monday evening regarding the application of the Gorge Vale Golf Club for a better rate on water than that recommended by the Water Board.

The most strenuous opponents to the granting of better rates were Aldermen Brown, Litchfield and Woodward and it seems very hard to reconcile their attitude in this regard in view of the fact that they have consistently voted in favor of the granting of better terms to outside capital to come and establish industries in the city, which would lead one to suppose that the aldermen in question have got one policy fixed in their minds with regard to outside capital and an entirely different policy with regard to local capital.

Alderman Brown several times arose to assure the council that a deputation from the Golf Course had been heard by the Water Board, but he did not tell the council that the receiving of the deputation was in the nature of a courteous gesture which was entirely without value, that deputation went to the City Hall to meet that Water Board fully believing that the matter would be thrashed out on it's merits and a rate arrived at, instead of which they were given an opportunity of presenting their case after which they were advised that the board had already, at some previous meeting, decided just what they were prepared to do, in other words the receiving of the deputation was just so much "eye-wash."

I should also like to point out that a great deal of unfair comparison was used in arguments in comparing the rate paid by the Uplands and Oak Bay Golf courses against that offered by the city in this instance.

Both Uplands and Oak Bay have to purchase their water from the Municipality of Oak Bay who in turn have to buy it from the City of Victoria. Oak Bay, therefore, cannot be expected to sell water to its consumers at a cheaper rate than what it buys, so that any comparison made is unfair.

Alderman Litchfield's chief objection to the granting of a better rate seemed to be that the club would be using most of its water at a time when it was most needed for household purposes, and this objection he sticks to despite the fact that the Golf Course has assured the council in its letters that the water will be practically all used during the night. His objections therefore is absurd.

The stumbling block of the Water Board seems to be that they have laid down a policy with regard to the use of water for irrigation purposes, but it seems to me that any policy which does not allow of the consideration of any case on its own particularly merits is unjust.

The Acting-Mayor at the Council Meeting asked the City Engineer, who was present, how much money was involved, or how much money it would cost the golf course under the alternative proposals suggested by them, and his answer was that he had not worked it out, which is a fair indication of the consideration given to the said proposals. Surely a company spending $70,000 in addition to the purchase price of the land, a sum which, incidentally, is to be spent almost entirely in wages, is not asking for too much when they ask that their proposals be at least given the same consideration as that accorded other interests.

Some 450 citizens of Victoria and district are investing their money in the construction of this golf course, which will be an added attraction to the city, and I as one of the members have a feeling that if an outside capitalist had written to the city proposing to build a golf course and asking for a favorable rate for water that the rate offered to him would have been considerably lower than that offered in the present case, and I am certain that the majority of the members feel that the council are discriminating the investment of local capital as compared with that from outside sources.

The golf club are not asking the city to forego any revenue that they have already been receiving so that the granting of a special rate should be a matter of easy adjustment, and I also think that the directors of the club, who are giving a great deal of time without remuneration, should be given a fair hearing by the council.

After all the City of Victoria will benefit most by the construction of the new course and the only consideration they are asking is well within the power of the City Council to grant.

GEORGE H. STEWART

ABOLISHING WAR

To the Editor:—Your editorial comment, of Saturday, January 7, concerning the present Franco-American negotiations for the framing of an agreement to abolish war, appears to me rather unfair. Moreover it is liable to give those readers,—and there are, I fear, many of them, who lack a comprehensive knowledge of European conditions a completely mistaken idea of the French point of view and of the real nature of the problem—for though the said comment is "guarded," its implications are plain enough.

In the first place, it might be well to recall that the initiative in the matter on hand was taken not by the U. S. Foreign Secretary "holding out the hand of friendship on behalf of his country," but by the French Government, and that the whole question originated in the suggestion made by Mr. Briand, the French Foreign Minister, as far back as April 1927 for both countries to agree never to make war on one another. Meanwhile arrangements were being made for the renewal of the Arbitration Treaty between France and the U. S. A. (better known as the Root-Jusserand Agreement), the present treaty becoming extinct on February 27, next.

Negotiations had progressed favorably and a definite agreement had been reached between the representatives of the two governments as to the actual wording of these treaties on December 20, 1927. Then it was that Mr. Borah, whose unfortunate influence seems to be always that of a firebrand, although he loudly advocates pacifism, butted in, in his capacity of chairman of the Senatorial Committee for Foreign Relations, and prevailed upon Mr. Kellogg, Secretary of State, not to bring up for ratification the agreement already reached, but to substitute to these two Franco-American pacts a general treaty "outlawing war"—whatever that may mean to the layman or the statesman—and to extend this new treaty so as to include Great Britian, Germany, Japan and Italy.

"Beware of words" is a wise caution to everyone, and one which politicians in whom success is their party politics has developed the well-known swollen head complaint, should be especially careful to keep in mind. If they did, they might perhaps realize why slogans and catchwords which are so effective from their local platforms, and loom so gloriously in the headlines of their native press, are apt to be of so little value when an attempt is made to apply them to the realities of international relations. Save for fine speeches and the limited benefit of the Washington Naval Agreement, what permanent asset has America contributed to the World's peace since the last nine years? The U. S. Government has consistently refused to collaborate in any of the constructive work achieved, both on general issues and in private conflicts, by the League of Nations. It has refused to join in the organizing of a World Court of Justice, or consider the mutual assistance system against aggression, or the "Protocol" for obligatory arbitration between conflicting nations—why, it couldn't even agree to outlaw the use of poison gas in war! Evidently the United States couldn't see their way to submitting a conflict in which they themselves would be involved to a World's Court of Justice. What about the American Constitution! What about the sacred Monroe Doctrine! Surely only benighted Europeans could suppose that what seemed wholesome rules for themselves should be applicable to the all-powerful American Republic. And as to poison-gas, did America incur any risk from such weapons, and if she were called upon to go to war, hadn't she the most powerful plants in the world to turn out millions of tons of these nefarious products?

Meanwhile, with a clearer understanding born of centuries of experience and knowledge gained at close quarters, France's political leaders, be they Millerand, of Poincare, or Briand, were busy tackling the deep-seated difficulties which the European world had to contend with. Nor did they wait for Mr. Borah's or Mr. Kellogg's suggestions to go on with the task of bringing about "permanent peace." It is through no fault of theirs that the treaty for mutual assistance, evolved at Geneva, or the famous "Protocol" of 1923, which was to make arbitration compulsory, are not to-day in full force.

It was Great Britain's refusal to ratify the "Protocol" which sealed the doom of that effort towards the promotion of peaceful relations between nations. True, the MacDonald Government had participated in its framing and had approved it, but the present British Ministry found it inacceptable for the British Commonwealth of Nations and it consequently fell through. Let us note, by the way, that Mr. Austen Chamberlain's straightforward statement of the difficulties he foresaw in this matter and which actuated his refusal of what his predecessor had helped to build up, was not interpreted in France, whence the idea originated and who had been principally concerned in the framing of the agreement, as a proof of his sneaking fondness for strife. France's leaders and French opinion understood that his motives were sincere and never doubted his good will towards the cause of peace, even though he did turn down this particular method of ensuring it.

Why then must you see in the present French reservation to the Borah-Kellogg plan, a proof of that nation's wish to "quibble" or "twist phrases."

Which is the nation, who, having suffered most from the Great War, has ever since its conclusion shown her unwavering desire for the peaceable settlement of all difficulties born from treaties which were inspired and morally forced on her acceptance by those two men Woodrow Wilson and Lloyd George, whose support was so conspicuously lacking when the time came to fulfill their solemn pledges? Who submitted peacefully to the successive reductions of her war-damages claims, the full payment of which had not only been one of the principal features agreed upon in the Versailles Treaty, but had been actually one of the foremost conditions put forward to bring about the Armistice? Who, since then, has been steadily working for the establishment of peaceful and business-like relations with former enemies? Who has, in spite of her own ruins and crushing economic burdens, contributed to the financial restoration of Austrian and even German public wealth? Who brought about the amicable settlement of Locarno? Whose business men have concluded really workable economic treaties, with their German brethren? Who indeed but France, whom certain stump politicians and Main Street pressmen of America are continually holding up as a menace to the world's peace?

Thus, when we consider the history of the past nine years we see on the one hand a nation whose every international move is stamped with the desire to ensure its own peaceful future, to bring about the amicable settlement of conflicts between nations, and to give the weaker ones the certainty of being protected against aggression. On the other, a great power whose line of conduct, whether in its state of disdainful aloofness from European affairs, or in its attempts to settle financial or disarmament questions, has been imbued with egotistical and nationalistic aims; why even in negotiations for the framing of tariff regulations last year, when France was so bold as to ask the U. S. to reciprocate in the matter of preferential rates, Uncle Sam wielded the big stick and some American "patriots" talked of prohibition and boycotting, to bring the puny Gaul to proper subservience. Is not the launching by the Coolidge Administration of the most formidable of modern Naval Armaments programmes yet another example of the American way of understanding peace. Great Britian, who, as all the world knows—save perhaps the Mayor of Chicago—does not consider the possibility of war with the U. S. A., actually would not subscribe to the American Admiralty's programme for "limitation" of cruiser-building. Well Uncle Sam is just going to show them what he can do.

America, or rather American politicians, must boss the show, or not be in it. Sooner a world of armaments, conflicts and wars, than a peaceful one where the U. S. A. wouldn't have the whiphand.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, January 12, 1903.

Thirty-six passengers from Dawson, Atlin, Whitehorse and Skagway came south on the steamer Amur, which arrived yesterday afternoon, after landing all but four or five of them at the Terminal City.

The career of the steamship Victorian, the vessel on the Canadian waters, has begun rather inauspiciously. The vessel was towed over here from Tacoma yesterday by the American tug Sea Lion and at the entrance to the harbor was taken in charge by the Victoria tugs Albion and Sadie, and taken to Spratt's wharf in the upper harbor.

MOTHER UNOPPOSED TO GIRL'S MARRIAGE TO INDIAN PRINCE

Nancy Ann Miller Said to Be Quiet and Popular

Seattle, Jan. 12.—Quiet, unassuming, popular among girl acquaintances, but having few boy friends because she was so tall, a sophomore in the University of Washington and twenty-one years old—such is the picture of Nancy Ann Miller, reported bride-to-be of the former Maharajah of Indore, as painted by friends of the family here.

Mrs. Jennie Miller, mother of the girl, was visiting friends in Tacoma today, members of the household said. She has received no word of her daughter's intended marriage, it was understood.

Miss Miller, who had been in Europe all Summer, is traveling with her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Louis Shafer. The last word the family here has had from Nancy Ann was a letter written in Southern France some weeks ago. The letter made no mention of the girl's plans for the future.

MUCH TRAVELED

Miss Miller received all her education in public schools here, but traveled extensively with her mother and grandmother. She made a trip to Europe each year to take radium treatments for the removal of a birthmark near one eye.

It was on a tour in India years ago that Miss Miller first met the former Maharajah. Miss Miller and her mother also spent much time with the Indian Prince during his American tour in 1926, when the Maharajah attempted to conceal his identity under the incognito of "N. Raje." It was explained at the time that the Millers were accompanying the former ruler to repay him for kindnesses shown them during their visit in India.

While friends of the girl here express concern that Nancy Ann is planning to marry "that sort of a man," and the American Consul at Bombay is reported to have tried to dissuade the girl from the marriage, the mother has frequently told questioners that she would not actively oppose the affair.

MOTHER NOT SURPRISED

Asserting that she had not been informed of the forthcoming marriage, Mrs. Miller said, however, "I wouldn't be surprised. In fact, I would not be surprised at anything nowadays.

"If they do intend to be married I won't stand out against them. Principally because it wouldn't do any good, for we have talked it over before and Nancy wouldn't listen to me."

Mrs. Miller left her daughter with the grandmother, Mrs. Shafer, in August. At that time the Maharajah had not proposed marriage, Mrs. Miller said. She and her daughter had talked over the possibility of his doing so, she said.

Bombay, India, Jan. 12.—The attitude of the two present wives of the former Maharajah of Indore toward his forthcoming marriage to Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash., is in sharp contrast. The senior Maharanee, his first wife, is unconcerned because her son, Prince Yeshwant, in whose favor the former Maharajah abdicated, attains his majority soon and his future position seems secure.

The junior Maharanee, however, is still in a condition of collapse. She has taken no food for days and refuses to see mother or relatives. By the terms of his abdication, the former Maharajah receives an annual allowance of 800,000 rupees (roughly $288,999), and each wife 200,000 rupees ($72,000).

His present wives complain that they have not received their allowances in full.

The general feeling in India is that the prospective marriage is most undesirable. The white community thinks that Miss Miller can not realize what such a marriage involves, while the Hindu opposition is based on religious grounds. It is stated that the orthodox religion does not accept converts and recognizes neither conversion nor a marriage such as is contemplated.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Reid, 123 Simcoe Street, when Rev. de B. Owen united in marriage their only daughter, Elizabeth (Beth) Grace Reid, R.N., and Mr. Cecil Lewis, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Lewis of this city, only immediate relatives being present. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked very sweet in a French silk model gown of periwinkle blue and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and pink carnations with maidenhair fern. Miss Irene Smart, R.N., was bridesmaid in a pleated gown of old-rose georgette, and carried a bouquet of white and mauve chrysanthemums. Mr. Harry Lewis, brother of the groom, acted as best man. A very dainty luncheon was served, after which the young couple left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride traveling in a black seal plush coat trimmed with fox fur and a gold metal cloth hat. The bride and groom received many handsome and useful gifts, testifying to their popularity. Upon their return they will reside at 942 Courtney Street.

BIRDS' MIGRATION TOPIC OF LECTURE

Alpine Club Hears Interesting Address at Home of Miss Spencer

Before the Victoria section of the Alpine Club of Canada last evening at the home of Miss Sara Spencer, an interesting address was given by L. E. Taylor on "The Migration of Birds." A series of slides depicted the routes taken by the various species and added much to the interest of the lecture.

METHODS OF STUDY

References in biblical and later times to the migration of birds were recalled by Mr. Taylor, who also cited some of the classical observers on the phenomenon. But efforts at scientific study of the matter had not begun until about the middle of last century. In the last fifteen or twenty years great headway had been made, in England great impetus being given the study by the formation of a special committee within the British Association. A Heligoland student had brought out a book on the subject in 1890, and on this continent scientific observations were begun in 1890 under the direction of Professor Baird, followed by the American Ornithologists' Association.

The speaker dealt with the methods of study—by means of banding of nestlings, or birds caught in traps. This was being carried on all over this continent and throughout Europe, on a large scale, and from the circulation of information by people who had noted the data on these bandings, where possible, it had been possible to learn a great deal about the distances and routes traveled by migratory birds. For instance, out of 5,800 mallards banded in three years, 1,150 had been found; and fifteen per cent of the 1,100 blue wings banded had also been traced.

STORKS AND SWALLOWS

Among the more remarkable discoveries were those concerning storks, of the movements of which the Germans and Danes had made a close study. The speaker had seen in the Kanahari Desert, Africa, storks banded in Germany, and in South Africa there had been found, at various times, sixty-five storks marked in Germany, Austria and Denmark.

Interesting records of swallows had also been made, during the last few years birds ringed in England and Scotland having been found in the Transvaal and Natal. The Duke of Northumberland in 1880 had started the first scientific system of banding, and since his time banding enthusiasts had sprung up all over the country, Aberdeen University being among the number.

The lecturer touched upon some of the theories as to the cause of bird migration, scientists being agreed that the state of the earth and the search for food supply and change of climate during the glacial period was probably responsible for what was usually conceded to be due to hereditary instinct and not a cultivated knowledge. In any event the old theory that birds hibernated in mud, swamps, ploughed fields, etc., was no longer entertained by scientific men, although there were still people to be found who entertained the idea that small birds during migration traveled on the backs of larger birds.

DEFINITE ROUTES

Definite lines were followed by certain birds at definite seasons, the flight of the golden plover from the Arctic to South America being instanced. These birds flew from Nova Scotia to Venezuela in a single flight, but in returning north in the Spring came via Central America, Mexico, the Mississippi Valley and the Mackenzie Valley down to the Arctic. No explanation could be given as to the way in which the birds found their way, apart from hereditary instinct.

In the absence in Vancouver of the president, A. O. Wheeler, the chair was taken by R. D. McCaw. C. L. Harrison moved the vote of thanks to the speaker, and Miss Spencer was warmly thanked for her kindly hospitality.

BOOK SHOWER FOR VICTORIA COLLEGE

While a generous response was accorded to the appeal by the Women's Canadian Club for books of reference for the library at the Victoria College, the committee in charge feel confident that there are still many citizens who have such books for which they have no further use. Anyone having books of historical, philosophical, sociological or mathematical subjects, for which they have no further use, is asked to consider the question of giving them to the college for reference purposes, the existing library at the college being totally inadequate to the needs of the large student body. Books may be left with the general secretary at the Y.W.C.A. or, if necessary, will be called for. A list of the books most needed has been posted in the City Library, Yates Street.

WAS KNOWN HERE

The late Dorothy Donnelly, who passed away in New York last week was well known in Victoria, having visited this city on several occasions some years ago. She was well known as an actress and librettist, and was the author of "Blossom Time," "The Student Prince," and the musical version of "Old Heidelberg."

PRETTY WEDDING AT CHRIST CHURCH

Miss Amelia Eik and Mr. Carl Arnet of Tofino Married Here

At a very pretty ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral, Tuesday evening, Miss Amelia Eik, daughter of Mr. John Eik of Tofino, became the bride of Mr. Carl Arnet, also of Tofino. The Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of ivory silk velvet trimmed with Venetian lace. Miss Helen Carson, the maid of honor, was gowned in shell pink crepe de Chine, and Miss Annie Moir, the bridesmaid, was in powder blue, both having picture hats with silver streamers to match. Mr. Hubert Eik supported the groom.

During the ceremony, the happy couple stood beneath a daintily arranged arch of chrysanthemums and evergreens. Miss Josephine Duncan sang "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register. Messrs. Ernest Robinson, Roy Moir and Reginald Williams acted as ushers.

A host of friends attended the church ceremony, including several of the staff of the B.C. Telephone Company, of which Mrs. Arnet was formerly a member.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Moir, 864 Queens Avenue. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and mauve with white chrysanthemums, and the table was centred with the magnificent three-tiered wedding cake.

The bridesmaids were recipients of white gold rings set with rubies, while the best man received a handsome gold fountain pen.

The couple left on the midnight boat for Vancouver, where they will enjoy their honeymoon on a two weeks' tour of the Sound cities. They will reside at Tofino. For traveling the bride was gowned in rosewood crepe back satin and a seal coat trimmed with squirrel, and a French model hat.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Met—The monthly meeting of Robert Burns McMicking Chapter of the I.O.D.E., for January was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Kathleen Tadman, 639 Harbinger Avenue. Mrs. C. S. Brown was welcomed to the chapter as a new member. Nominations were made for the election of officers to be held at the ensuing meeting. Arrangements were also made to hold a bridge party on February 6 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Government Street.

King's Daughters—The ministering circle will hold a silver tea at the rest rooms, Hibben-Bone Building, on Friday, January 13, from 3 to 6. All members and friends are invited.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

HOME CARE OF BABIES WITH COLDS

About every other letter opened these days says: "My baby has had a cold and I wonder if it is all right to take her out of doors? Shall I bathe her daily as usual while she has this cold?"

When a baby has a cold and this is accompanied by fever it is wise always to have a doctor's advice on the medical treatment. The mother can help by keeping the child quiet, by a judicious selection of food, by keeping the temperature of the house even and with plenty of moisture. It does not hurt the baby to have a daily bathe, in fact it is beneficial to him. Do not take the baby out if it is raining, or generally disagreeable, as so considered by the mother. Keep plenty of fresh air in the baby's room and this can be done without materially lowering the temperature by using a cloth screen at the window, keeping up the heat and using a large, shallow kettle of some sort for the evaporation of water near the heat.

Babies who take cold at the slightest breath of fresh air are certainly not in good condition. The breathing of hot, dry air constantly, is conductive to colds an dthe way to prevent this is to keep the above exceptions, from the beginning of cold weather. If the child is underweight and under-nourished: if he is overly fat due to over-feeding or an over-abundance of fat making foods; if he has enlarged adenoids and tonsils, decayed teeth or infected nasal passages, he will be more than likely to give a welcome berth to cold germs. Such conditions are only temporarily helped by medicines, the mother must recognize that a healthy child is not easily upset by changes of temperature, too few clothes, an unusual and indigestible meal, while the child who is below average will react to most of these situations by "taking cold."

Also one must not forget that most diseases are ushered in with what seems to be a cold. As said in the opening paragraphs babies with colds and fever should be under the care of a doctor, and this means small children too. Barring a fever, the usual rest light food, and a moist even temperature will in a few days bring relief from the trouble

In "Matinee Ladies," he plays a college student who rescues a girl at sea.

The girl is May McAvoy, who is starred. Others of the cast include Hedda Hopper, Charles Lane, Lincoln Plumer and Margaret Seddon. Byron Haskins directed, and the screen story was written by Graham Baker.

LON CHANEY'S NEW PICTURE FEATURES RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

"Mockery," Lon Chaney's new starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer at the Dominion Theatre, is a dramatic mystery play of the Russian Revolution.

Chaney plays the role of a strange, hermit-like peasant who worships a girl of the upper classes and is content to be her slave if only he can serve her. Then by a strange turn of fate, she is placed absolutely in his power. The bloodshed and horror of the revolution rages about them. The peasant becomes a leader and drunk with his power, he all but destroys the thing he had loved. His love changes to brutality and then the unexpected happens in a most dramatic climax and the peasant pays with his life for a distaster he could not avert.

As the strange mujik of darkened Russia, Chaney has a role rich in unusual and startling opportunities. His supporting cast is one of extraordinary ability, headed by Barbara Bedford as leading lady and Ricardo Cortez as the young officer whom she loves.

Benjamin Christensen directed the tale with such directorial skill as to place it among the finest pictures of the season.

SCENES OF ANCIENT AUCTION MART SEEN AT CAPITOL THEATRE

An ancient auction mart for slaves is shown in the film, the scene of which is New Orleans in the early years of the nineteenth century. There, the beautiful heroine is subjected to the humiliation of being sold as a slave.

Gilbert Roland and Noah Beery, with Miss Dove, have the leading roles. Emile Chautard, Armand Kaliz, Boris Karloff, Andre Lancy, Raymond Turner, Paul Vincentt, Robert Schable and others appear in the cast. The masculine leading role is portrayed by Roland, who had a similar characterization in "Rose of the Golden West," a former George Fitzmaurice production for First National Pictures. Noah Beery is the villainous Captain Remy, a slave runner.

The picture was writen by Benjamin Glazer and based on Edward Childs Carpenter's "The Code of Victor Jallot."

On the stage at the Capitol Theatre this week in addition to the big bill of pictures, there are three fine vaudeville presentations, which include George and Florence, a team of novelty dancers, in a special dance divertisment, The Dubin Duo, an operatic harmony specialty, which is exceptionally good, and Richard Staunton, a tenor soloist of no little merit, completes the vaudeville turns, which are topped by the ever-popular Capitol concert orchestra, under the leadership of Al. Prescott.

OPERA COMPANY TO APPEAR AT PLAYHOUSE THEATRE NEXT WEEK

Manager Calladine of the Playhouse Theatre is anxious to make it clear to his patrons that the special production of Balfe's great opera, "The Bohemian Girl," which she will give at his theatre on January 16, 17 and 18, with matinee on Wednesday, January 18, includes the personal appearance of the National Opera Company, an organization of well-known operatic artists. The principals include such favorites as Miss Theo Pennington, prima-donna soprano; Mercedes Dalmada, dramatic soprano; Carl Bundschu, baritone; Franklin Meeker, tenor, and Frederick Wheeler, basso.

These artists will appear on the Playhouse stage in person, in suitable costumes and with appropriate scenery and effects, singing all the lovely melodies and choral numbers from this delightful opera, including the old favorites, "The Heart Bowed Down," "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," "Than You'll Remember Me," and others.

The management wish to emphasize that the soloists are all operatic artists of a high order, with many years national touring experience throughout the United States and Canada. With these artists will be shown a motion picture film, made in England, with a notable cast, including such celebrities as Ellen Terry, Ivor Novello, Gladys Cooper and Constance Collier. An augmented orchestra will play complete musical accompaniment throughout the entire performance under Basil Horsfall's personal direction. Tickets can now be secured at the Playhouse box office.

A coincidence of the sea, and the men who go down to it in ships of one sort or another, was remarked on when the Robert Kane Production Company went aboard the U.S.S. Seattle, flagship of United States fleet, to film scenes for "Convoy," now at the Variety.

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander of the fleet, and Rear Admiral Robert F. Leigh, Chief of Staff, who are making the Seattle their flagship, both served aboard the vessel the year it was put in commission, following its construction at the Camden Shipyards. Admiral Hughes who was then a commander and Admiral Leigh who was then a Lieutenant Commander were Executive Officer and Navigating Officer, respectively, when the Seattle cruised out from its drydock to the Orient in 1906.

Grain Prizes Given At Prairie Show

Saskatoon, Jan. 12.—William Darnbrough of Laurs, Sask., is the winner of the premier honors for hard red wheat at the Saskatchewan Provincial Seed Show, now under way at the University of Saskatchewan. By virtue of winning the championship in wheat, Mr. Darnbrough also becomes the winner of the Farm Crop Trophy.

Saskatchewan's 1923 wheat king is by no means a newcomer to the show contests, having in the past collected a number of international honors. For several years he has been producing field crops for exhibition and has given a very good account of himself at the Chicago International Show. His record in this respect is well known throughout Canada.

William Darnsbrough Jr., son of the wheat king, won first honors in oats with an exhibit of the banner variety.

Silverwood, the director, told Truckee authorities, was warned, but would not get behind shelter and a large rock, hurled high by the blast, struck him in the back of the neck.

NEARLY MAD WITH RHEUMATIC PAINS!

"Nearly every day, especially in damp weather, I suffered terribly from shooting pains and sharp twinges in my legs and arms. Nothing gave me any relief and at times I thought I would go mad. When I tried 'St. Jacob's Oil' it was with no hope at all. The very first application brought relief and I have had perfect comfort since."

Good old "St. Jacob's Oil" certainly does relieve the pains and aches of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuritis, Lumbago and Neuralgia. This soothing, penetrating oil seems to reach right in through the pores and draw out all the pain and ache. And there is no burning of the skin. Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" at your druggist and try it out on any pain, ache, sprain or swelling.

The American, or is it only Mr. Borah's point of view, in the present Franco-American negotiations, is also characteristic of the average American politician's inability to grasp questions concerning other countries than his own. Profoundly ignorant of historical and racial problems outside his own country, ignorant, or woefully oblivious of existing treaties and agreements in which his nation has no share, he lays down the law for everyone to obey, but surely in the present instance, the difficulties of the problem must appear even to the most prejudiced.

Personally I cannot conceive that a civilized country could honestly undertake never to resort to war as an ultima for its defence. Suppose, however remote the possibility, that Canada, peace-loving Canada, were attacked and invaded, would any pledge taken in bygone times by her statesmen, prevent her citizens from arising to defend their territory and their rights as a free nation? Would any citizen of any community forego his right of defence against a burglar who breaks into the house, or a thug who attacks him on a deserted street? Would that same citizen be justified in standing by and letting a child, whose protection he had undertaken to ensure, be outraged and despoiled?

Yet, if we are going to honestly agree "to outlaw" any kind of war, that is what we are committing ourselves to. What then about the independence of small states such as Belgium, a European child born not a century ago, who was, not so long since, assaulted, and in whose defence one if its mighty guardians to her everlasting honor be it told! arose in wrath! What about Albania, whose independence Italy has just agreed to protect? What about half a dozen other more or less weak nations, whose very existence is in danger from their neighbors, among whom racical instincts and traditions reaching back to centuries ago, are not yet extinct.

For instance, in the event of a treaty such as the one under consideration being concluded between the U. S. and France, Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Japan, were Germany to renew her attack on Belgium in some distant future, would France and England stand by and see the deed done or if they did intervene in arms, are they to be "outlawed" and at all events deprived of any sympathy or help whatever from the world's greatest power? No Frenchman, and I should think, no Englishman would stand for such a conception of "organized peace."

Hence the necessity, if solemn pledges are to be honestly undertaken and lived up to, to bring in the factor of "aggression", in any treaty tending to establish peace on a durable basis.

Of course in the wonderland of Utopia, one can conceive all nations, be they European, American, Asiatic, African or Australasian, joining together and at the same hour, in the same place, solemnly declaring their intention of never resorting to war of any kind. Do you, or anyone else, honestly believe such a thing possible under present conditions, or in any near future? That well-known peace loving institution the Government of Soviet Russia came forward with just such a "plain," "straightforward" plan for world disarmament at the last Geneva Conference. I think you will agree that most of the statesmen around that board were at least as pacific at Mr. Litvinoff, yet, it appeared to them a strangely insincere and non-constructive scheme, and most of them no doubt understood that the Sovietic envoy was endeavouring to address, over their heads, one more revolutionary appeal to the people whose destinies they governed.

Therefore, to men who bear in mind the underlying difficulties and the regrettable lack of perfection of most human communities, to men whose knowledge of history and of humanity extends beyond the limits of their own country, it seems necessary to proceed step by step along the rugged road towards permanent peace, and so, taking into consideration the world such as it is and will be for many years to come, they think it will, in view of making a really workable agreement between nations, to introduce the reservation concerning "aggressors."

Nor is that quality so difficult to define as you seem to imply. In the 1923 "Protocol" previously alluded to, aggression was defined as the act of a nation who resorted to war before submitting the point in dispute to the Council of the League of Nations. Surely such a definition would be easy to interpret by any independent court.

And here let me add that, in your editorial, you seem to consider that aggression and responsibility for war are one and the same thing. It is true that Germany has always steadily denied her war-guilt—who has not heard a culprit plead "not guilty" when their was evidence enough against him to hang him? I will not enlarge on this question of Germany's responsibility for the Great War, though I am rather surprised to read such a very indefinite enunciation of it under your pen. But, as to her character as "aggressor," why no living being, not even a German, can deny that she took the initiative of moving her mobilized troops across her adversaries, frontiers before her own territory had in any one spot been invaded.

Do you know that, the French Government of that time, in its desperate desire to avoid war, and any incidental cause of war, ordered the troops stationed along the German frontier to keep within a distance of ten kilometers (six miles) from the said frontier till war was actually declared? Do you remember Bethmann- Hollweg's speech in the Reichstag, when he proclaimed and, to his own people, justified his policy of aggression, while he incidentally, indicated the respect in which his Government held such "rags" as international treaties?

No, the fact of "aggression" is not difficult to define and moreover, I do not believe that the introduction of that specification in the pending treaty between France and the U. S. A. is anything but the indispensable complement to an otherwise worthless document.

Now, let the floodgates of American political and nationalistic eloquence be opened and let us, meegly, submit to their downpour. It will not be the first time that the Pecksniffs of international pacifism assail us with their bombastic pronouncements. Their notion is, no doubt that, to promote peace, it is necessary to create ill-feeling and foster suspicion.

But why should you join hands with them in thus suspecting the motives of a government who, do not forget, was the originator of this peace-move. Surely in peaceful Victoria, in Canada, a British land, where fair play is not only a slogan but a fact, your readers are entitled to an unbiassed opinion of the "other man's" views, even though they may not be in perfect accordance with those of our mighty neighbors?

Alberni

Alberni, Jan. 12—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Blakemore on the River Road on Tuesday, January 10, when their youngest daughter Connie was united in marriage to Harry Vose, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Vose of Sayward, B.C. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. G. A. Bagshaw of Parksville, a friend of the bride. The bride entered the room on the arm of her father who gave her away as the strains of the wedding march were played by Mrs. Will Blakemore, her sister-in-law. The bride looked very dainty in white georgette with cut work embroidery, veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, pink carnations and smilax and was attended by Miss Myrtle Beck as bridesmaid. Miss Beck wore a dainty dress of pale blue georgette and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemus. Mr. W. Beck supported the groom as best man. Mrs. Blakemore, the bride's mother, looked very charming in a hand embroidered blue crepe de Chine dress and Mrs. G. Newton of Centre Island, a sister of the bride, looked very nice in green crepe de Chine. The room was very prettily decorated with white and pink chrysanthemums. Mrs. G. Newton, a sister of the bride, and her husband and other relatives and a few intimate friends attended the wedding. After the ceremony a very dainty wedding breakfast was served following which the happy young couple left by train for Vancouver where they will spend their honeymoon before returning to Sayward where they are to make their home. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received, testifying to the popularity of the young couple.

The firemen had as their guests the City Council, the fire chief and secretary from the Port Alberni Fire Brigade and a number of others. The usual toasts were drunk and during the evening Messrs. McNiff and Tindall contributed a number of songs. After the banquet was over the floor was cleared and dancing was indulged in to the strains of McLean's orchestra.

M. Holt; consolation, Mrs. W. G. Bigmore; gentlemen's first, L. A. Pineo; consolation, James Clark.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's United Church was held in the church on Tuesday evening with the pastor, the Rev. A. McLean in the chair. Reports were received from the Ladies' Aid by Mrs. Milligan on behalf of Mrs. McLean who was unable to be present, showing that the ladies had raised well over $300 during the year. The ladies had co-operated with the board of managers in renovating the church and laying new rubber mats on the church floor and they had had the kitchen roof of the manse reshingled. Miss Agnes Forrest reported on behalf of the Sunday school, showing an enrolment of sixty-seven with seven teachers and had raised over $150 during the year. Mrs. Parker reported on behalf of the Women's Missionary Society, showing a very successful year. The board of managers' report showed the finances generally to have been the best since the year 1915, having been able to meet all financial obligations and have a small balance to carry over. The following were elected as managers for the year: N. McEachern, T. S. Grieve Jr., P. Ramsay, E. Stephenson and Mrs. Lundine. Trustees, Captain G. A. Huff, Harry Hills and C. Taylor. Two new elders are to be elected by the congregation to take the places of James Hills, deceased, and H. B. Currie, removed from the district. Miss Jean McEachern reported for the Canadian Girls in Training that they had a very successful year's work, and had sent two bales of clothing to the Province Santa Claus Fund. Mr. E. Stephenson acted as secretary of the meeting, at the close of which refreshments were served by the ladies.

WILL CASE ARGUED IN APPEAL COURT

A ruling for the B.C. Court of Appeal on the will of George Keyes of Lulu Island who left an estate of roughly $10,000 was sought in an appeal on which judgment was reserved to-day.

Mr. Keyes died March 30, 1927, six weeks after his wife, Sadie Keyes, the whole of whose estate he inherited.

Two years previously husband and wife on the same day had made wills in virtually the same terms. Both expressed a wish that certain bequests should be made, the wife in the event of her husband predeceasing her and vice versa. The husband made no new will on the death of his wife.

The question arose whether the words "this is my wish" used in the wills created a precatory trust or whether it left the bequest to the discretion of the next of kin. The wills, leaving the estate to the husband or wife, which ever was living at the death of the other, contained a desire, but leaving it to the judgment of either party, that $1,000 be left to St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, $300 of which was to be used for celebration of mass for the repose of the souls of the testators and the upkeep of graves.

Mr. Justice Morrison believed there was a director amounting to an obligation creating a trust in favor of the parties to whom the testator, in his opinion, clearly intended the property should be distributed. He allowed the bequests.

For the next of kin, it was claimed in appealing the judgment, that Geo. Keyes died intestate and the estate should go to the next of kin.

Judgment was reserved.

LIBERALS OF WARD SEVEN IN SAANICH CHOOSE OFFICERS

Norman W. Whittaker Speaks on Social Legislation Passed By Liberal Government

Notwithstanding most unfavorable weather conditions fifty people attended the annual meeting of Ward Seven Saanich Liberal Association, held in Hampton Hall, Burnside Road, last night. The principal business was election of officers, the following being elected: Honorary presidents, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and Hon. J. D. MacLean; honorary vice-president, C. H. O'Halloran and N. W. Whittaker; president, A. W. Arnup (re-elected); vice-president, James Stuart; secretary-treasurer, Geo. E. Forster (re-elected); executive committee, Mesdames A. A. Pass, J. Smart, D. Ramsay, Messrs. A. A. Pass, J. V. Hancock and N. Washington. Secretary Forster presented a very able report, showing that membership in the association had increased fifty per cent in the last twelve months.

President Arnup predicted that after the next election Saanich would be represented by a Liberal member in the local House, and said the reason for his confidence was the record of the Liberal Government and the growing popularity of the Liberal candidate, Mr. Whittaker, who was rapidly gaining friends from all parts of the constituency.

David Ramsay, president of Saanich Liberal Association, spoke briefly on Federal affairs. He claimed that as the Conservative party blamed the Liberals for adverse conditions, it was fitting that the Liberals should claim some credit for the splendid progress which Canada had made since 1921. He gave as a concrete example the reduction in the national debt of nearly $110,000,000 in the past two years, the increasing revenues and tax reductions.

The speaker paid a tribute to the Liberal candidate, saying that by his character and ability, he was well qualified for his position, and that aided by the enthusiasm and confidence which was growing daily, Mr. Whittaker would be found at the head of the poll when the election took place.

N. W. WHITTAKER

Mr. Whittaker went into the social legislation passed by the Liberal Government since it took office in 1916. He referred in detail to the "Mother's Pension Act, 1920," the "Equal Guardianship of Infants Act," "Minimum Wage Act," the "Eight-hour Day Law," the "Minimum Wage for Men Act," and the "Old Age Pensions Act."

Answering the suggestion of Conservative speakers that the Liberal Government was in any way responsible for the emigration of Canadians to the United States, the speaker pointed out that during the time the Conservative Government was in power at Ottawa, 750,000 Canadians had emigrated to the United States, and that during three years of that period Dr. Tolmie had been Minister of Agriculture. There always had been and always would be an interchange of emigrants crossing the border line between the two countries.

Regarding the export of raw logs from British Columbia, Mr. Whittaker pointed out that the Government had no control over logs exported from Dominion Government lands or from certain kinds of crown granted lands. As a matter of fact, only 3.3 per cent of the entire cut of logs in the Province of British Columbia is exported in the raw state from lands over which the Government has any control. To entirely prohibit the export might have the effect of causing the United States Government to place an export duty on raw cotton and coal shipped from the United States to Canada. During the fiscal year ending March, 1927, Canada imported 135,796,000 pounds of raw cotton from the States, and 17,692,000 tons of coal. An export duty placed by the United States Government on raw cotton and coal would have a disastrous effect on the Canadian industries engaged in the manufacture of the raw cotton into finished articles and also upon the Canadian consumer.

The ladies committee served refreshments and later in the evening the floor was cleared for dancing, Len Acres's orchestra supplying the music.

NO WORD COMES FROM PACIFIC SHIP WHICH CALLED AID

Radio compass stations meanwhile began a check to determine the exact position of the Griffco at the time she sent out the SOS calls.

MEN FROM VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Jan. 12. — Vancouver sailors may be aboard the steamship Griffco, feared in trouble in a storm on the Pacific. The Griffco was sold ten days ago to the Inter-island Steamship Navigation Company of Hawaii by the Coastwise Steamship and Barge Company of Vancouver, which built the vessel. It is thought some of the officers and crew who were with the vessel when it traded out of this port remained with the ship.

ATTEMPTS FAIL

Everett, Wash., Jan. 12—All attempts by the Oriental Dock radio station here to get in touch with the Steamship Griffco by wireless since the vessel's second and last SOS distress signal 300 miles southwest of Cape Flattery was intercepted at 11.30 o'clock last night have proved futile. Nothing more has been heard of the ship.

The Gonzales wireless station reports receipt of distress calls from the steamer Griffco at about 10.30 o'clock last night. No further word has been heard.

The Victoria School Board were today the guests of the Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel, Chairman George Jay addressing the Rotarians on school affairs and the proposed technical school, after Rotarian Alex. Peden had introduced his fellow members of the School Board. Trustees Pike and Straith were unable to be present.

Chairman Jay said Victoria College has an enrolment of 229 students, 179 being in first year. He expressed pleasure with the progress shown. Purchase of Craigdarroch at $35,000 was recalled, and had saved the board larger expenses for buildings.

INFORM PUBLIC

Enrolment in the city schools was 5,963, an increase of 157 pupils in the year. The board had decided upon a policy of extending high school studies, but before undertaking this expansion believed the public should be acquainted with conditions.

Enrolment at Victoria High School is now 1,200 and the limit of accommodation has been attained. One of the alternative courses available is exclusion of the 218 students from Saanich, which pays $17,800 for this service, being the pupil cost of the High School. Such a course would be a hardship on Saanich and lose a substantial revenue to the city. Because the Saanich students are scattered through all classes, elimination of them would not greatly reduce costs and a profit of about $5,000 earned under the circumstances would be lost.

TIME NOW RIPE

An alternative was transfer of commercial courses to a new building designed for technical purposes. About 400 pupils would be involved. Chairman Jay believed the time to be ripe for a technical school in Victoria, declaring that substantial Provincial assistance towards construction and equipment of the required building was promised. Similar grants had been made to Vancouver and New Westminster.

Such a technical school in Victoria would serve the adjoining municipalities and the unorganized districts of southern Vancouver Island. In closing Chairman Jay appealed to the Rotarians for support in the campaign for public approval.

Rotarian E. C. Hayward was congratulated upon his election by acclamation as Reeve of Oak Bay.

The Schubert Club's recital at the Empress Hotel on January 17 was brought to the attention of the Rotarians by a letter from the Kumtuks Club.

W. H. Ruffell rendered a group of baritone solos, accompanied by George Ozard.

WARD FIVE SAANICH ENDORSES MILNE AS REEVESHIP CHOICE

Unusual Honor Accorded Candidate; Reeve Shows Successful Record

Councillor David Milne, reeveship candidate in Saanich, received an unusual tribute last night at Royal Oak Hall, being tendered unanimous endorsation by Ward Five ratepayers attending a meeting called by the Municipal Council for presentation of the yearly reports.

Reeve William Crouch showed the successful operations of the last year had been general to all departments, that the sinking fund has a surplus of nearly $30,000, and that the waterworks system was paying a handsome profit despite sale of water for irrigation at cost. The waterworks credit balance had been increased to $16,606, despite lower charges to consumers in the later months of the year.

The Reeve showed that the police department had cost less than for many years, the municipal office expenses had been lowered without impairment of efficiency, and the Health Centre had been reorganized on a basis which will show reductions in health charges in future, due to employment of a full time medical officer through co-operation with the Rockefeller Institute. The cash surplus available for reduction of 1928 taxes had been $22,500, compared to the deficit inherited when he took office as Reeve.

Assessment on agricultural land had been reduced $2,000,000, and although taxes had been collected on improvements, the tax income had only increased $7,000 during the year. The cash surplus was a surprise to himself and all the council, he asserted.

BASIC PROBLEM

Councillor David Milne dealt chiefly with assessment problems, declaring that correction of inequalities would terminate the differences between urban and rural sections of the municipality. If elected he would have a council committee work with the assessor in examining all complaints. He was a candidate for the reeveship in the belief that his election would restore harmony, the rural wards having no confidence that Reeve Crouch would give them impartial hearing after his public statements of lack of sympathy with their views.

TRUSTEE HOBBS HONORED

Trustee Mrs. J. McN. Beckett, retiring, scored heavily when she made a trenchant appeal on behalf of Trustee Frank V. Hobbs, who is seeking re-election, but prevented by illness from making a personal appeal. At the conclusion of her remrks the meeting voted Trustee Hobbs unanimous endorsation.

Councillor Clarence Oldfield briefly thanked the ratepayers for according him an acclamation. He criticized Reeve Crouch for being intolerant and hostile towards rural complaints against taxation and assessment.

CANADIAN COUNCIL OF AGRICULTURE GETS MANITOBA SUPPORT

Portage la Prairie, Man., Jan. 12—The United Farmers of Manitoba, at yesterday afternoon's session of their annual convention here, placed themselves on record as whole-heartedly in support of the work of the Canadian Council of Agriculture and voted to increase the association's annual grant to $1,200 to the council involving a small additional levy on the individual members.

Tribute to the work of the Canadian Council of Agriculture was paid by J. L. Brown, M.P. for Lisgar, Man. The council, he said, was recognized as speaking with authority. The organized farmers could not afford to let it pass out of existence. It had served as a powerful champion of the interests of the farmers of the Dominion and the consuming public generally. Representatives of the council had been constantly alert with respect to outstanding legislation affecting the tariff, freight rates, coastal laws, grading regulations and other questions.

TARIFF BOARD

During the discussion of the grant to the Council T. W. Bird, Progressive M.P. for Nelson, Manitoba, urged organized farmers of Canada to demand abolition of the Federal Tariff Advisory Board. Mr. Bird was bitter in his condemnation of tariff boards in general, declaring such agencies were "merely buffers between the Government and public opinion."

W. R. Wood of Winnipeg explained that the Federal Tariff Board was principally an investigational or fact finding body and he suggested that even if it did not meet with the satisfaction of the farmers' movement generally, it could, notwithstanding, serve as an effective vehicle for the propagation of the farmers' viewpoint.

The debate was peremptorily checked by Chairman A. J. M. Poole, who declared the Tariff Board was not officially under fire or review.

SASKATCHEWAN ORGANIZATION

A. J. Stoneman of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan section of the United Farmers of Canada addressed the convention and conveyed the fraternal greetings from his organization.

He made no overtures to the Manitoba organization, but emphatically declared the split in the ranks of the Saskatchewan farmers which had led up to the formation of a provincial section of the national body had served as a factor of even greater unification. Far from proving disastrous to the organized farmers' movement, the Saskatchewan section had expanded rapidly until to-day it boasted a membership of 30,000.

Unsigned Will Gives New Angle To Murder Inquiry

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—Discovery of an unsigned will of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, wealthy victim of a "sack murder," leaving her entire fortune to a daughter, Margaret, has started sheriff's officers here on a new angle of the investigation of the slaying.

The unsigned will, found in a packet of deeds, notes and other personal papers of the murdered woman, was the first intimation received by the officers that Mrs. Appleby had a daughter. The document had been drawn by an attorney in Chicago in 1925.

In the even of the death of Margaret the testament provided that the estate, now estimated at between $250,000 and $500,000, should go to C. Richard Betts Jr., Grace Alma Betts and Jean May Betts, the three children of C. R. Betts, a Chicago attorney, who also was named as guardian of Mrs. Appleby's daughter in event of the mother's death.

Although the will, being unsigned, would not be legal in the opinion of sheriff's officers, the information it contains is important.

DECLARED FORGERY

A purported will of Mrs. Appleby, supposedly drawn in Duluth last Summer, leaving the estate to Dr. Charles M. McMillan, now awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with the murder, was found in the physician's apartment at the time of his arrest. Deputy sheriffs have declared this will to be a forgery.

An immediate search for the daughter, Margaret, was launched by investigating officers after the finding of the unsigned will yesterday. They communicated with Chicago authorities, asking their aid in the search.

"Columbians" Urged By Spaniards as Name For Canadians

Madrid, Jan. 12.—A new twist has been given to the century-old controversy over whether inhabitants of the two continents on the Western Hemisphere should be called "Americans" or "Columbians."

This time the suggestion is made by Rodriguez Marin, director of the National Library of Spain, who says that if those residents of the two Americas, exclusive of citizens of the United States, would call themselves "Columbians" the confusion arising from the present sweeping use of "Americans" would be eliminated and an honor really due the "great admiral," Christopher Columbus, would have been paid.

MANITOBA LIQUOR BILL IS DISCUSSED

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Rapid progress has been made by the law amendments committee in considering the new Manitoba liquor legislation and it will be in a position to report when the Legislature reassembls January 16.

Local option provisions of th bill were considered yesterday. When the beer-by-the-glass plebiscite was taken June 23 last constituencies including the cities of Brandon and Portage la Prairie, voted dry. Unless these constituencies take a local option vote within six months of the passage of the bill they will automatically become wet. The bill also stimpulates that after the twenty-three constituencies have voted no local option vote will be taken in any part of the province till after September 15, 1931.

He was at one time one of the leading criminal lawyers in Alberta and acted for the defence in many famous cases. He was connected with the defence of Picarillo, the Blairmore man called the "King of the Bootleggers," who was hanged for the murder of Provincial Constable Steve Lawson. Mr. Harris acted for the defence in the early stages of that case.

Old in Years

But Keeps Appetite Young

An acid stomach ages people much more than the years they live; it creates more thin and weak bodies, and faces with sallow complexion than anything else; it causes more bad breath and carves more wrinkles of misery and age than all other evils put together! Why?

Because a stomach full of acid sours your food, and starves your body.

A tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin chewed after meals will dissolve the acid in your stomach and clear up that sour, bloated drowsy feeling. It will help your stomach digest your food. You will get back your young appetite; you will gain weight and your complexion will be clear and firm.

All drug stores have Pape's Diapepsin. (Advt.)

HORNSBY DEAL ACCIDENT NOW LATEST VIEW

Boston Wanted Another Giant and Chance Remark Started Hornsby's Move

Baseball World Still Groggy; Boston Players Said to Be Worth $150,000

New York, Jan. 12.—Unsatisfied with the official statements promulgated by New York Giants' headquarters, baseball experts continued guessing today as to why Rogers Hornsby was sent to Boston for two comparatively unknown youngsters.

Officially, the trade which brings Frank Hogan, promising catcher, and Jim Walsh, outfielder, to the Giants, in exchange for a fine second baseman and one of the greatest hitters the game has ever known, was "made for the best interests" of the Giants, "to avoid any future conflict in management" of the club.

LEFT ON ITS HEAD

That was the substance of two statements issued by the Giants powers that be. The first was over the signature of both President Charles A. Stoneham and Manager John McGraw. The second, by Stoneham alone, was intended as a further "explanation" of the deal which stood the baseball world on its head on Tuesday night and so far, has left it there.

In his second statement, Mr. Stoneham recalled that statements had been made that Hornsby would be the next manager of the Giants and then added: "I have never been consulted regarding this and have had no conference about the selection of a manager as Mr. McGraw retains the management of the New York Giants."

CAST DOUBT ON STORIES

Few if any of the experts accepted the "official" explanation at its face value. Hornsby himself in St. Louis denied he had had any trouble with McGraw or had attempted to "undermine" the "Little Napoleon."

Suggestions that the Giants had an interest in strengthening the Boston Club were denied by officials and scouted by most others. The idea, advanced in several quarters, that the suit for gambling debts against Hornsby had played a part in the trade, met with a similar reception.

Hornsby won this suit in court.

Although there were rumors that the club was angling for Hughie Critz, star second-sacker of the Cincinnati Reds, it was indicated that Andy Cohen, sensational in the International League last year, would get the call to fill Hornsby's shoes.

Boston, Jan. 12.—While various explanations and rumors concerning the origin of the deal which brings Rogers Hornsby to the Hub, to captain the Braves, still eddied about in the wake of sensational announcement last night, Boston fandom and officialdom seems content to let the New York Giants' explanation of the deal stand for itself.

Officially, from Braves' headquarters, Boston "has been after Hornsby for some time, and gave up two promising as well as youthful players, both of whom are wanted by the Giants' to further that end."

AN ACCIDENT

Unofficially, the deal was something of an accident, growing out of Boston attempts to obtain the services of a different New York player.

According to the unofficial version, President Emil Fuchs, of the Braves, met Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, some ten days ago on a dicker for another Giant infielder. The deal fell through, but at a later conference, McGraw intimated that he would like Francis Hogan, the young Braves' catcher, and Jimmy Welsh for his outfield if the Braves' president really had any trading in mind.

WANTED HORNSBY

More in amusement than in earnest, Judge Fuchs replied that "it would take Hornsby himself to get those two." When McGraw gave serious thought to the statement instead of an answering smile, the Braves' chief executive got down to business and the deal went through as much to his own surprise as that of the lay baseball world.

The only additional comment forthcoming from the Braves' president regarding the deal to-day was a statement to the effect that Hogan and Welsh were valued at $150,000 and worth a lot to the Giants.

"That's their value to me and the Braves," he said, "and any statement such as one I have heard from New York that Rogers Hornsby, a $200,000 player, was traded for $25,000 worth of material is absurd."

New York, Jan. 12—Instead of satisfying a startled baseball public with the explanation that Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves "to avoid any future conflict in the management of the club and for no other reason," the New York Giants yesterday apparently heaped only fresh coals on the fires of debate. The brief statement issued by Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, not only was taken with several grains of salt by the assembled experts, but drew from Hornsby a sharp reply in which the famous second baseman disclaimed any controversy with Manager John McGraw, and denied any attempt last season to undermine the authority of the "little Napoleon."

ONE-SIDED TRANSACTION

While innocent bystanders still were a trifle groggy from the shock of the deal, which sends the league's highest salaried star to a seventh place club in exchange for two little-known players, catcher Frank Hogan and outfielder Jimmy Welsh, the experts probed behind the scenes for the "real reason" prompting what seem, on the surface, like the most one-sided transaction in recent years.

Most of the observers took one of the two views—either that some mysterious circumstances caused the sudden trade or that it was merely the forerunner of another big switch in player talent by the Giants. The latter view is strengthened by the existence of a gaping infield hole left by Hornsby for which the club now has only rookie talent to fill.

The suggestion that "syndicate baseball" was involved—in other words that the Giants had an interest in strengthening the Boston club—was scouted by most observers. J. J. Tierney, secretary of the Giants, characterized this as "ridiculous," pointing to the new major league rules which prohibit any club owner from having any interest whatsoever in any other club. Nevertheless newspapers recalled the long succession of deals between the Braves and Giants over a period of years as well as the fact that former Judge Emile Fuchs, president of the Braves, is a resident of New York.

WANT ONLY ONE MANAGER

In the absence of Manager McGraw, however, officials of the Giants made it clear that the chief reason for parting with Hornsby was to keep harmony in the club and prevent the possibility of "two managers" trying to run the outfit. Stoneham's statement frankly admitted this, but neither he nor Tierney shed any light on exactly what prompted the prospect of such "conflict" or on what ground McGraw and Hornsby differed.

"Statements have been made throughout the country that Hornsby would be the future manager of this club," Stoneham's statement said. "I have never been consulted regarding this and have had no conference about the selection of a manager, as Mr. McGraw still retains the management of the New York Giants."

INSPIRED BY FRIENDS

The Giants, it seems, regarded these published statements as prompted by Hornsby's friends, if not the second baseman, in spite of the fact that McGraw himself pinned the "heir apparent" label on Rogers late last season at a time when the second sacket was being given almost a free rein in the field direction of the club.

Even if Hornsby's supposed "lese majeste" isn't quite clear to observers it is manifest at any rate that McGraw has no intention of handing over the managerial reins to anyone else for some time to come. So far as the Giants are concerned, there is only one manager and his name is John Joseph McGraw.

Flashy Forward

DAVE DOWNIE

When the Monarchs of Vancouver, met the Victoria team here three weeks ago the player who caught the eyes of the fans was Downie, who stick-handled beautifully and scored four goals. Downie will be here to-morrow when the Monarchs pay their second visit of the season. Downie will find the going much harder this time as the Capitals will be stronger than at any time this season. Downie will have a tougher defence to get through and a faster-skating forward line to get away from.

Officials of the Victoria Hockey Club announced definitely this morning that "Osie" Osmundsen, of the Portland Rosebuds, would be here for the game to-morrow night at the Arena. The game promises to be the most exciting of the season.

Grads May Have No Opposition From U.S. at Olympics

New York, Jan. 12.—The Toronto University Graduates, Canadian Olympic hockey team, is virtually assured of an easy victory in the coming Olympic games as the result of the indication at yesterday's meeting of the U.S. Olympic Committee and Olympic Association that the United States will have no hockey team in the Winter sports, as has been the custom in the past. Entries from all countries must be received at Olympic headquarters in Europe on January 20. Yesterday was about the last opportunity the American Olympic Committee had to provide hockey and skiing entries.

SHARKEY WILL BE QUIET BOY IN THE FUTURE

"Loquacious Gob" Will in the Future be Known as "The Clam Tar"

Has Little to Say on Eve of Fight With Heeney To-morrow Night

New York, Jan. 12.—Jack Sharkey is in excellent condition for his twelve-round bout to-morrow night with Tom Heeney, and shows no further trace of injury to his hand, two physicians of the State Athletic Commission announced to-day after a special examination of the Boston heavyweight.

New York, Jan. 12.—An air of patient silence hung heavily to-day about Jack Sharkey, whose New Year resolution of "no more blood and thunder" outbursts excluded even a prediction as to what dire happenings would be visited upon Tom Heeney in the Madison Square Garden ring to-morrow night.

Accustomed as the public is to Sharkey's loud speaking, his audience was totally unprepared for the almost demure edition of the Boston heavyweight who trekked into New York to report for examination by the New York State Athletic Commission. Questioned as to the outcome of his twelve-round melee with the brawny New Zealander, Jack only smiled, and said in small voice: "I think I will win." He felt quite "all right." But through the veil of reticence that has fallen so suddenly over the massive form, there came occasional flashes of the old Sharkey—the cockey youth—who "gave the eye" to ancient Mike McTigue and Jimmy Maloney, and even tried to stare out of countenance Jack Dempsey.

DID NOT WANT TO RUN OUT

"Why should I spend thousands of dollars training for a little guy like Heeney if I intend to run out a few days before fighting," Sharkey demanded, pounding on the edge of the chair the left hand fractured in training for the original match with Heeney, postponed from late in 1927.

"I should give up sixty grand for fighting him, oh, no, no."

Hudson's Bay Run Up Heavy Score On V.M.D. Hoop Squad

Leaders in "C" Section Play Well and Win; Maple Leafs Beat Red Wings

The results of the City League Basketball games played last night were as follows:

Hudson's Bay 41, V.M.D. 17.
White Lunch 20, Red Wings 10.
Navy defaulted to Foresters.

In spite of the bad weather last night a good crowd journeyed to the Centennial gym to see the City Basketball League teams in action.

The feature tilt of the evening, between the V.M.D. and the Hudson's Bay, was fast, with the Bays having a decided edge. In the first stages the game was inclined to be rough, but under the strict refereeing of "Scotty" Dowds the teams soon cut out their rough tactics and settled down. At half-time the score stood 22-11 in favor of the departmental boys, but in the second half the Bays forged ahead and ran up 19 points to their opponents 6.

Dowds refereed and the teams were:

Bays — Tripp, Addie 11, Mawry 2, Brown 2, Patterson 16, Watson 13.

V.M.D.—Caddell 4, Massick, Swetman 8, Viggers 4, Grant 1, Wragg, Brinkman 2.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN

In the ladies' game the White Lunch Maple Leafs continued their winning streak and doubled the score on the Red Wings. At the rest period the score stood 9-4 in favor of the Leafs, but after that the Red Wings came back strong to nearly tie the score. However the White Lunch sharpshooters got busy again and K. White and D. Ruffles dropped in a couple of nice baskets to make the score book read 20-10.

Massick handled the whistle and the teams lined up as follows:

Maple Leafs—L. Spershot 2, K. White 9, B. Brooker 3, K. Freestone, G. Butt, D. Ruffles 6.

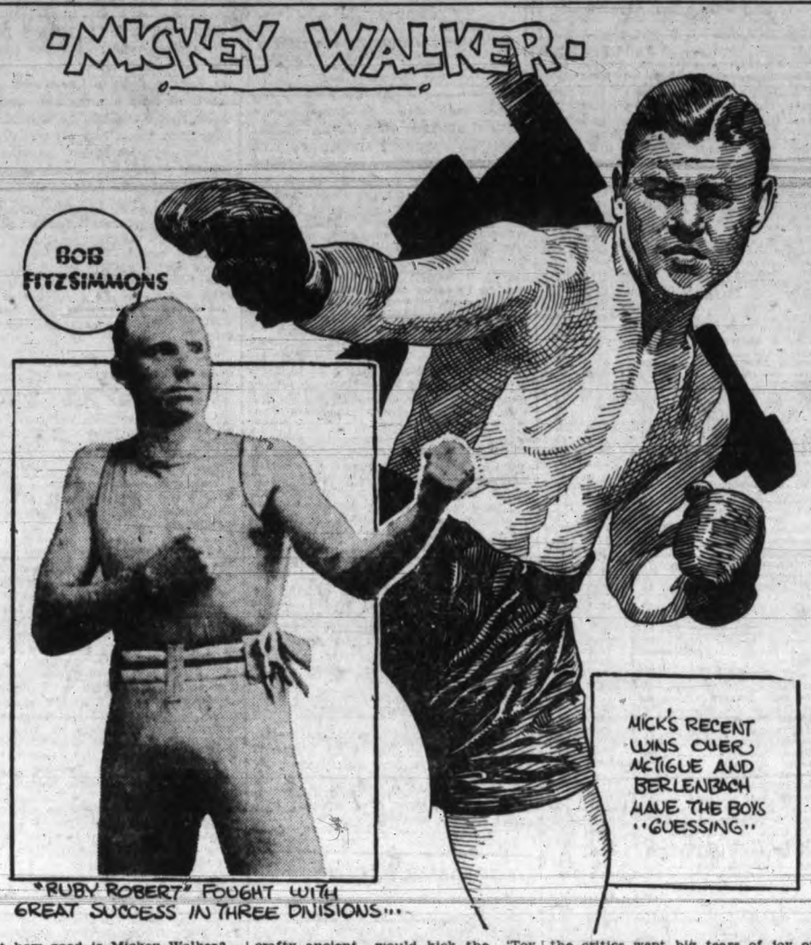
Red Wings—M. McRae 4, D. Rendle 2, K. Hill 4, D. Viggers, A. McRae.

Island Badminton Championships to Open Here Feb. 2

Play in the Vancouver Island championship badminton tourney will open at the Armories on February 2, and will continue for three days. The event, which has become an annual affair, will be staged under the auspices of the Garrison Badminton Club.

A large number of Mainland and Island players will be here in quest of the various titles. Victoria will be well represented, and it is expected that the local entry will eclipse any previous one.

CAN WALKER WIN HIS THIRD TITLE?



Just how good is Mickey Walker?

Or let's put it this way. What part is luck playing in the present fistic fireworks, furnished by the Elizabeth, N.J., Irishman?

This question is met with a dumb look from the educated boys who had the boss of the middles pegged as one about ready for the cleaners. Most of them figured the "Toy Bulldog" was on his last legs and even after his sensational ten-round knockout of Tommy Milligan in London, they merely giggled and said funny things about the British exponents of the manly art.

The "Mick" then returned to the states and started a tour of the jungles, handing out the leather colic to all who got in there with him. "Just a little mor easy jack before he hangs up the mittens or is bumped out from under the crown," was the way the smart fellows had it doped. "Just wait 'til 'Tiger' Flowers gets another crack at the champ," or words to that effect.

SOME SURPRISES

Then it came out Walker was matched with the venerable Mike McTigue and the boys felt certain their good dope would hold up. "Surely the crafty ancient would kick the 'Toy Bulldog' all over the enclosure," was the feeling of the mob.

But the little man surprised and sent Auld Mike out in less than a round and Mr. Pandemonium has been around ever since. He followed this up with a decisive win over Paul Berlenbach. Thus inside of a month Walker has defeated two former light heavyweight champions.

Also the gang on the corner is now not so sure of Walker's early demise and some even venture to say maybe Mickey is another Bob Fitzsimmons or something, one who can cope with the bigger fellows as well as those of his own division.

NOT ALL LUCK

Be that as it may, it certainly is not reasonable that a man can win himself two titles and make designs at still another on the mere strength of a ribbit's foot in his rear pocket.

With the defeat of McTigue and Berlenbach Mickey proved he is far from through, pugilistically, his defeat by Latzo and his disputed win over the late "Tiger" Flowers to the contrary notwithstanding.

Back in 1922 after Walker won his first championship from Jack Britton, the critics wept big tears of joy over the youngster, going so far as to call him a "White Walcott" and a "Miniature Jack Dempsey." All agreed he was a most capable champion and with the experience he has gained since, there is no reason to believe Mickey is not as good as ever

MANAGER HELPS

Another thing to consider is the part his manager, Jack Kearns, is playing in the flare-up. Kearns was roundly scored by many for letting the welterweight title get away from Walker in the Scranton go with Latzo. It was poor judgment, they said, for a champion to risk his title for so little consideration, and right in the challenger's stronghold.

But the "musk fancier" got his boy another crown within a few mouths and has been steering him into triumphs ever since. Surely he has been vindicated for the nasty things said about his managerial ability.

But Kearns and Walker have announced they are out for bigger game. Maybe by the end of Winter the fans will know if Mickey Walker can play Fitzsimmons's roles or whether he is just getting by on the good graces of Lady Luck.

Only One Man In U.S. Who Has Not Broken Spirit of Amateur Rule Declares Chas. Paddock

Los Angeles, Jan. 12—Charles W. Paddock, world's champion sprinter, declared in a signed article in The Los Angeles Express to-day that Helen Wills, Bobby Jones, and Johnny Weismuller had all broken the spirit of the amateur rule. He named Jay Gould as the only real amateur of prominence in the country.

George Von Elm Denies That He Will Turn Professional

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—George von Elm, former national amateur golf champion, last night denied reports that he would sign under the management of Jack Kearns, fight promoter, as a professional for a golf tour. Von Elm insisted he would never consider abandoning the amateur ranks for the professional.

While Kearns insisted the colorful golfer was considering seriously his offer, von Elm declared suggestion had been made only in a kidding way, and that he would not for a minute think of making such a change.

Kearns declared his belief that plenty of money could be made out of professional golf if it were given the "proper ballyhoo," and intimated that von Elm would be under his management after finishing the Long Beach tournament, which starts Friday.

Kearns brought the name of Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, pro., into the proposition as a possible teammate for von Elm.

Moran to Report to Chicago Black Hawks

Moose Jaw, Jan. 11.—Ambrose "Amby" Moran, defence man and captain of the Moose Jaw Maroons, of the Prairie Hockey League, was yesterday traded to the Chicago Black Hawks for Teddy Graham. Moran will report at Chicago on January 16. No cash was involved in the deal.

Schaefer Leading

New York, Jan. 12.—Jake Schaefer was leading Welker Cochran by nearly 300 points at the conclusion of the sixth block of their 3,600 point 18.1 balk line match last night. The score was: Schaefer 1,800, Cochran 1,157.

Schaefer took the afternoon block 300 to 288 in fifteen innings, but bowed to Cochran in last night's session 478 to 400 in sixteen innings. Schaefer's high run this afternoon was 97 against 60 for Cochran. The latter ran 82 for his best effort last night. Schaefer's high run was 76.

Winnipeg Maroons Change Managers; Helmer Is at Helm

"Steamer" Maxwell Retires; Toronto Purchases New Player; Hockey Results

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—F. R. "Rosie" Helmer of Calgary was named manager of the Winnipeg Maroons of the American Hockey Association yesterday to succeed Fred "Steamer" Maxwell of Winnipeg.

No reason for the change of management was announced.

Maxwell gained much fame as the man who developed the famous Falcons, winners of the 1920 Olympic hockey championship. Helmer formerly aided Eddie Oatman in managing the Calgary Tigers in the Western Hockey League.

Toronto, Jan. 12.—Jerry Lowery, member of the famous Ottawa hockey family and flashy centre for the Toronto Ravinas in the Canadian Hockey League, has been sold to the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League, it is announced. Lowery broke into the Canadian League with Ravinas this season and his work has drawn favorable comment from the first. The purchase price was not disclosed.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 12.—Stratford extended their winning streak to three straight games and beat Windsor 3-1 here last night.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 12.—Kitchener Millionaires again took Canadian Professional League leadership here last night when they bagged a 3-2 win from Mickey Roach's Cataracts. A crowd of 3,500 fans, a record for the season to date, saw the game.

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—The fast tactics of St. Paul, with brilliant combination and rushing attacks, proved too much for the Winnipeg Maroons last night. The Saints piled up an 8-4 victory in the American Hockey Association match, though at times they were forced hard by the locals.

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—Two goals in the final session brought victory to the Minneapolis Millers of the American Hockey Association here last night. After a hard-fought tussle the Millers emerged with a 2-0 win over the Duluth Hornets.

Local Swimmers May Bring P.N.A. Indoor Gala to This City

Officials of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club are considering the probability of staging the Pacific Northwest Association indoor swimming championship at the Crystal Garden in the early Spring. Negotiations are under way with Portland and Seattle, and final word is expected shortly. The American stars are anxious to make the trip, and are almost emphatic in their request that the gala be held here on account of the splendid facilities.

The matters will be further discussed by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club at the annual meeting to be held on February 7 at 8 p.m. in the Campbell Building.

Jock McNeil, who for a number of years was president of the club, tendered his resignation, which was regretfully accepted.

Club nights at the Crystal Garden will be Tuesday and Friday from now on, the club announced.

Saanich Schools to Hold Sport Meeting

A General meeting of the Saanich Public Schools Athletic Association will be held at the Tolmie School, Saanich, Friday, January 20, at 8 p.m.

CITY CLUB'S FUTURE WILL BE DISCUSSED

Players and Officials Gather To-night Following Awarding of Game to Wests

Protest May be Lodged With B.C.F.A.; Two Games Are Scheduled For Saturday

As the result of a decision made last night by the Lower Island Football Association the Victoria Wests have been awarded the Province Cup game played December 18 against Victoria City. The game was stopped by the referee after a small riot had started. At the meeting of the board it was decided to give the game to the greenshirts and not call for a replay, as was first planned.

Following the meeting last night officials of the Victoria City Club got together and decided to call a meeting of both officials and players to-night at the Veterans of France clubrooms at 7.30 o'clock. The future policy of the club will be discussed. It is expected the city will decide whether or not they will continue to play in the First Division.

PLAYERS OUT

At a recent meeting of the L.I.F.A. three of the city's players drew suspensions as a result of the game with the Wests. Alex Cameron was given a three months' term, while George Preston and Bob Preston each drew down thirty days.

The City may decide to appeal the decision of the local board to the British Columbia Football Association in an effort to have the game replayed, but it is not likely the parent body will reverse the decision of the L.I.F.A. after they refused to handle the case. The City will be hard put to field a capable team with three men under suspension.

The Wests will now meet the Saanich Thistles, city champions, in the finals of the preliminary round for the Province Cup. The winner of this game will accompany Esquimalt into the main competition for the Province Cup.

Two semi-final games in the Milton Cup series will be played Saturday afternoon, with the Saanich Thistles meeting the Victoria Wests at the Royal Athletic Park, while Victoria City and Esquimalt will battle at Beacon Hill. Payne will referee the former, while Oliver will handle the fixture at the Royal Athletic.

This is one of the best cards scheduled in recent weeks.

The Wests have been traveling at a fast clip, and the snappy Esquimalt Club is numbered among their recent victims. The geenshirts have given the Thistles several tough games this season and now hope to chalk up a win over the city champions.

The Victoria City will present a weakened eleven against Esquimalt. With three of their players under suspension they will have to call on their reserve list. Esquimalt, with a 5-1 victory hung up last week over the Five C's, feel confident they have hti their regular stride.

Kelowna Lose

New Westminster, B.C., Jan. 12—Kelowna's fast stepping aggregation of basketers dropped the final game of their coast tour to Adanacs here last night by a 23-17 count after one of the best-played games of the season.

Slightly superior in combination and ability to find the hoop more often at close range, the home team had just enough edge to secure the verdict.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

AUSTRALIAN CROP SMALLER

Melbourne, Jan. 12.—The latest government estimate of the wheat yield of the Commonwealth, issued to-day, gives the probable crop as 109,000,000 bushels.

Australia's wheat yield in 1924-25 was 164,558,734 bushels.

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Jan. 12.—Wheat: Another dull, featureless day in the wheat market. However, there was no pressure on the market, offerings being very small, while there was a quiet absorption by exporters and others sufficient to take everything that came out and hold the market very firm and fractionally higher most of the day.

Export sales from the Atlantic seaboard were said to be quite small, but there is a good demand for certain grades of cash wheat at Vancouver where shippers have tonnage to fill, and stiff premiums are being paid over Fort William basis. Some close observers were of the opinion that foreigners were buying Winnipeg futures this morning with the idea of taking delivery later on. There was no short covering to-day, shorts having run to cover yesterday and the spreading only moderate.

Liverpool closed ⅛ to ¼ higher, but did not follow our advance of yesterday. Argentine shipments this week are estimated to total around 4,500,000 bushels, and will likely increase for the next few weeks as substantial quantities have been purchased for January and February shipment. Argentine movement of new wheat has spread into the southern provinces, while the weather remains very favorable for threshing and movement from farms.

The weather in western Canadia is exceremely mild and farmers deliveries continue large, the marketings yesterday being 1,538,276 bushels as against 867,223 a year ago. Wheat inspections yesterday were 1,912,680 bushels as compared with 633,080 last year. Canadian supplies continue to increase, but still there is no pressure on the local market, despite the fact that export business is disappointing.

There is a fair cash demand for wheat from mills, who are after the tough grade and low grades, and it is reported that the demand for wheat and four from the Orient is improving with some orders booked. The strength in corn to-day was another feature that was helping wheat, but the latter market eased off near the close. There is a large sleeping long interest in our May wheat that will have to be liquidated some day. Winnipeg futures closed about unchanged.

Coarse grains: While demand was only moderate there was some buying of both oats and barley, while offerings were very light. There was some further export business in barley and eastern interests were taking oats. Rye continued dull. Oats closed ¼ to ⅜ up, barley unchanged to ⅞ up.

(By B.C. Bond Corporation direct wire)

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The range in wheat was ery narrow and prices at the close showed practically no change from yesterday's final figures. The strength in corn was the chief sustaining influence in the face of the larger Argentine shipments, poor demand abroad and knowledge that the large Canadian crop is awaiting disposal. Trade was very light and orders were filled under difficulties. Do not think bulges in wheat can be maintained under prevailing conditions.

News on corn generally favored holders and market was sharply higher. Leading local bulls were persistent buyers and commission house trade was broader. Seaboard indicated considerable export business, but gave no figures. Argentine corn in Liverpool was reported selling higher than our No. 2 mixed. Country offerings to arrive were light. There has been little country selling of corn since the first of the year.

Favor a trading position, with preference for purchases on breaks.

Oats: The nearby deliveries of oats were strong. Locals bought on the strengtht in corn, while selling was credited to Northwest interests.

Liverpool due ⅛ to ¼ lower.

WHITNEY PREDICTS WEEK-END RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 12 (By Branson, Brown & Company Limited)—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Bureau to-day says:

"The selling move which characterized the closing half hour of yesterday's market followed enough of an advance in the earlier part of the session to make the net result of the day equal or better than the previous close and to the extent that the burden of proof is on the selling side constituted a lack of performance which, at certain times, is as significant as what may actually happen at other periods in the form of strong movements.

"We have a market position which at present clearly indicates that the reaction, which was originally anticipated would run to about mid-week, is drawing to an end and that rally is not far off.

"It is not unreasonable to suppose that brokers' loans will reverse their trend of the last several weeks by showing a reduction and even though the actual amount is comparatively small it will provide a material contribution toward the rally which, I believe, will make itself felt in the market of the latter portion of this week.

"American Steel Foundries' too-wide opening has injected the time element into the issue's progress, but in the anticipation that delay will be short, I advise continued holding for the advance to which the stock is entitled. "Allied Chemical gives us further evidence of a big fundamental move to very much higher prices and recent commitments may be added to, or new ones made in the stock.

"The type of buying in Yellow Truck is worth following and expect forty or over in this move with higher prices later. Chicago Eastern Illinois preferred, Corn Products, National Distillers Standard Milling, Westinghouse Airbrake and other recent recommendations should all be held. Use this temporary dip from its best prices to acquire Canadian Pacific as well as Consolidated Gas New Haven.

New York, Jan. 12—Brokers' opinions to-day are:

Prince & Whitley—The entire rubber group should improve again before long, especially Goodrich, Goodyear, United States Rubber and Kelly.

Block Maloney—The market will not run away but will be two-sided for a time, with possibly new low prices for purely speculative issues.

Pynchon & Co.—We believe caution should be exercised and no extended long position taken until some further readjustment takes place.

Bache & Co.—We do not recommend other than a constructive speculative position until such time as the market proves definitely that a turn for the better has occurred.

Wall Street Journal's Review of To-day's Stock Market Over B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Wall Street Leased Wire to The Victoria Times

New York, Jan. 12—The evening edition of The Wall Street Journal says: "An optimistic statement on the first quarter earnings possibly of General Motors, by President Sloan and announcement that the Steel Corporation had increased operations five per cent in the last week found bullish reflection in the street to-day, and resulted in some short covering. When General Motors and Steel Common displayed a better tone their influence carried to other sections and the market demonstrated some rallying power. As a matter of fact the tone all through the day was quite steady.

Trading was smaller in volume and those who were committed to the long side found comfort in this as indicating the inability of continued selling pressure to force extensive liquidation and the comparative dullness was therefore regarded as a favorable sign rather than the reverse. An oversold condition apparently had developed in Greene Cananea which rushed up this morning, representing a recovery of 17 points from its recent low of 124.

Corn products continued to maintain a strong market position and Wall Street believed that buying for institutions and investment trusts had played a prominent part in establishing the stock at these new high levels.

While the two pieces of news on General Motors and United States Steel Common were bullishly interpreted, it is likely that the action of the market itself and apparent absence of extensive liquidation was the more potent factor in recreating some measure of confidence.

No change in rediscount rate. Brokers' loans increased $9,500,000. Call money 4% all day.

Ingot production of United States Steel Corporation has been increased five per cent in last eighty days. At the end of last week the rate was 73% but has now reached 75%. Independents now running 67% against 64% about a week ago.

Montreal To-day

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

By B.C. Bond Corporation Direct Wire

Montreal, Jan. 12 (By B.C. Bond)—The Gazette says: For the past year the tightening up of money to make up reserve deficits has made impressions of only a day or so upon the market and there is no reason to believe that there has been any change in this respect just because it is another year.

Even after the split up of Dominion Bridge and after the excellent annual statements shown by the company with good future prospects, many skeptics raised the question as to where the investor would get off at who purchased the stock around 75 with a possible $2 dividend in sight, and there were many who doubted that $2 would be established this year.

Montreal tried to assume the initiative in the market for International Nickel at the opening Monday, and the move seemed a bit premature as the local opening at the new high of 93 was a full point over the Wall Street price. They say that every action has an equal and opposite reaction and the local close at 89½, off 2¼ points, while New York closed at 90½, a net loss of only ⅞. Nickel held its place as the most active stock locally.

Montreal, Jan. 12—The big event of the day was the merger of Laurentide and St. Maurice Valley. Important developments in the St. Maurice Valley had been forecast for a long time past and to-day's announcement may not be the last one concerning new lineups. Both merger stocks attracted considerable attention this morning. Laurentide furnished about three-quarters of the total sales, with a turnover of 17,400 shares. Early in the session the price slipped to 121½, three points, but rapidly recovered to 124¾ for a net gain of ¼. St. Maurice Valley made a new high at 85 and closed at 84½.

At every session Fraser Preferred scores a large advance, but to-day's jump of 17½ was the biggest of all. From 157½, the price rose to 175 and settled at 170. Howard Smith strengthened a couple of points to 75. Spanish River Preferred opened strong at 146½, but later reacted to 145.

Nickel started 1½ up to 90½, later easing off to 89¼ and rallied to close at 92.

On the curb the leader in activity was Page Hersey, which made a new high record of 94. Cockshutt Plow also displayed strength and gained one point to 110, while Coast Copper was outstanding among the mines, making a high of 49½. Manitoba Power jumped 4½ to 88½.

LATE NEWS FROM TO-DAY'S MARKETS

New York, Jan. 12 (By B.C. Bond)—F. W. Woolworth declared regular quarterly $1.25 on common pays March 1, stock Feb. 10.

Regular quarterly dividend $1.25 on Continental Can pays Feb. 15, stock Feb. 6.

The New York American says there is a report that International Nickel may do some financing for the purpose of securing funds for development of its new mining properties. One story is that 200,000 shares of additional stock will be offered at $50 a share and another is that new funds will be raised through an issue. Both rumors lack confirmation, but it was evident that much of the recent support extended the stock was more the result of short covering than of actual buying by those who have been prominent in the earlier rapid advance. The original group in Nickel is understood to be pretty well out of the stock for the time being at least. The buying in Corn Products seems based on a better outlook for earnings. The best kind of support was evident in General Motors and United States Steel yesterday.

Gillette Safety Razor in year ended Dec. 31 earned $7.29 a share against $6.65 in 1926. Gillette declared quarterly dividend of $1.25, placing stock on $5 annual basis against $4 previously. Dividend payable March 1, stock Feb. 1.

Estimated General Cigars will show $7 share on common for 1927 against $6.21 in 1926.

Tobacco Products declared regular quarterly of $1.75 on Class A, payable Feb. 15, stock Jan. 27.

All departments of Otis Steel operating at capacity reflecting expanded demand from automobile trade.

The New Haven directors probably postponed declaration of a dividend on the common stock, says The New York Herald-Tribune, until such a time as the complete results for 1927 are available. When disbursements are resumed it is believed the quarterly close to the roads affairs that the rate will not exceed $2 or $3 per annum.

A floating supply of United States Steel common Dec. 31 as indicated by stock in brokers' names was 1,787,162 shares or 25.11% of total issue of 7,116,235 outstanding against 25.68% at end of Sept. and 28.99% on Dec. 31, 1926.

The oils—The gradual decline in crude oil production from the high of 2,287,000 barrels daily last July is a strong indication that the situation in the oil industry is gradually changing for the better. For the week ending Jan. 7, crude oil production averaged 2,378,900 barrels per day. Of course, it is true that there still exists a large amount of shut-in production which can be opened up when the price situation justifies such action. But, on the other hand, it seems quite probable that the normal decline in flush production of certain pools will largely offset such increase as may be brought about by the opening of pinched in wells. The oil stocks as a group should be bought since they will soon begin to reflect marketwise the improvement in the industry.

New York, Jan. 12 (By B.C. Bond)—Interstate commerce commission authorizes Atchison to issue 9,926,400 common stock capital to be sold at par to common stockholders and proceeds to retire underlying bonds.

PORTER-IDAHO STOCK PLACED IN ESCROW

Orén F. Hill, director of the Porter-Idaho mines, in a telegram from Hyder, Alaska, to-day to The Victoria Times, announces that Porter-Idaho stock has now been put in escrow as follows:

"The amount of Porter-Idaho stock placed in escrow last year was 1,152,300 shares," Mr. Hill announces. "On December 10, 1927, there was placed in escrow 1,161,052 shares, or 30,000 shares over last year's escrow, which represents 15,000 shares over all the stock issued."

The announcement from Mr. Hill is made in connection with the report that 1,000,000 shares of escrowed stock would be coming on the market next month.

COMMERCE BANK SHOWS BIG GAIN

Toronto, Jan. 12—E. R. Wood, Toronto financier, was elected a vice-president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at the annual meeting Tuesday. He holds a newly-created position. President Sir John Aird, Vice-president Sir Thomas White, and the board of directors were all re-elected. An increase of $46,000,000 during the year in the total assets of the bank, was referred to in the course of the address of S. H. Logan, general manager.

The total assets are now up to almost $559,000,000, he said, creating a further record. Deposits had increased $34,000,000, while there was a moderate increase in net profits.

Summing up general conditions in Canada, Mr. Logan predicted another and equally prosperous year, providing that overspeculation did not become rife.

The report showed a balance brought forward from the previous year of $1,280,899, and net profits for the past year of $3,726,910, or a total balance of $5,007,809. After provisions for dividends, etc., the sum of $1,423,924 is being carried forward.

FINANCIAL NOTES

New York, Jan. 12 (By Branson, Brown)—President Coolidge insists trade fleet be sold. He opposes the Government engaging in business for profit and favors subsidy for private operators.

Another sharp falling off in the crude oil production of the United States is revealed in the weekly estimate made by the American Petroleum Institute for week ended January 7. The institute places the average output at 2,379,050 barrels as compared with 2,419,750 in the preceding week.

For week ended December 31 loading of revenue freight was 679,600 cars, a decrease due to the Christmas holidays of 149,406 cars under 1926, and of 21,461 cars under 1925. Total car loadings in 1927 declined to 51,714,302, a decrease of 1,584,517 or 2.6 per cent from 1926, is reported.

New financing to-day exceeds $35,000,000; largest offering is $17,000,000 in mortgage bonds and debentures of Lexington Water at 5.50 per cent.

A surprise was given the financial district late yesterday when announcement was made from Washington that the I.C.C. had approved the St. Paul reorganization plan, for it had been long since anything in the way of a favorable ruling emanated from the commission. However, there have been intimations for weeks that a favorable St. Paul decision would be handed down. In view of the bondholders' committee defeat in the courts it was believed the commission would rule similarly. The approval ends the receivership of the old St. Paul and after three years of effort the reorganization managers can proceed with their creation of a new corporation.

There is talk of International Nickel planning issuance of 200,000 shares of additional stock at $50 a share.

Shifting of profits into Corn Products propelling this issue upward. There are rumors of recapitalization and other developments to come.

Oppenheim, Collins & Company declared stock dividend of 10 per cent and regular quarterly cash dividend of $1.

TWO DEEP SEA SHIPS HERE THIS MORNING

Alabama Maru in From Orient After Rough Trip; Heavy Silk Cargo

New Furness Motorship Pacific Enterprise Docks From United Kingdom

Two deep sea vessels, the Alabama Maru from the Orient and the Ms. Pacific Enterprise, from the United Kingdom, docked at Rithet Piers this morning.

Despite a delay by a hurricane-like gale in midpacific and heavy fog nearing this Coast, the Alabama Maru, operated by the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, reached port according to her schedule. The vessel only made nine miles in twenty-four hours when she encountered a fierce gale in mid-ocean, the captain reported.

The Alabama brought silk valued at over $3,500,000, consisting of 3,591 bales and cases of silk and silk goods. She had a fair general cargo. Freight set down at this port before the vessel proceeded to Seattle early this afternoon amounted to 110 tons.

Ten steerage passengers disembarked, and 113 bags of mail, including eleven of airmail, were discharged here.

The Pacific Enterprise, second of the new Furness (Pacific) Limited motorships to arrive here, docked at 10.15 o'clock. She is a day ahead of schedule.

One hundred tons of cargo were discharged here from the Enterprise, including liquor, steel, hardware and general. Of a full list of twelve brought out by the vessel, six passengers were still on board, the remainder having disembarked at coast post. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Kirk disembarked here, en route to Courtenay.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 1,267,000 bushels, as compared with 1,756,000 bushels the previous week.

Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons of last week's exports:

Canadian grain exported through United States ports last week amounted to 2,144,000 bushels, against 3,235,000 the week before, while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 246,000 barrels, as compared with 140,000 barrels.

TO-DAY'S BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 12.—Few outstanding developments attended the comparatively light trading in the bond market to-day. Prices were steady, on the whole, with evidences of realizing here and there.

Armour of Delaware 5½s., were freely offered, probably in reflection of low 1927 earnings by the parent corporation. Profit-taking checked the advice of St. Paul issues and Dominion Iron and Steel Certificates 5s. lost a point of yesterday's sixpoint gain.

Public Utilities were featured by heavy trading in New England Telephone 4½s., at fractionally better prices. Railway liens continued quiet with changes very narrow.

Firmness characterized the foreign group, but the volume of sales was not large. United States government issues were inactive.

U.S. NAVAL PLANS UNDER DISCUSSION

Washington, Jan. 12.—Approval of the administration's $725,000,000 new warship construction programme was urged upon Congress yesterday by high naval officials as necessary to the establishment of a navy strong enough to "protect our commerce, preserve our ocean trade routes and provide adequate national defence."

"We have not such a fleet at the present time," was one of the conclusions of the General Board of the Navy placed before the House naval committee by Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy.

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, Chief of Naval Operations, said the proposed ships, added "to our present force," would cause any nation to pause before attacking rights or interests of the United States."

Mr. Wilbur explained that the programme proposing the construction of twenty-five new 10,000-ton cruisers, five aircraft carriers, nine destroyer leaders and thirty-two submarines could not be considered as competitive, but was "based upon the needs of our navy as it is determined by the Secretary of the Navy upon the technical advice of the General Board."

Matson Liners Reconditioned

San Francisco, Jan. 12—Undergoing repairs and alterations to the passenger accommodations that cost approximately $350,000 the Matson liner Matsonia left the shipyards early yesterday preparatory to re-entering the company's San Francisco-to-Honolulu service on January 18. The sister ship of the Matsonia, the Maui, is undergoing similar repairs and alterations and will be ready for the transpacific service within a few weeks.

V. H. Pinckney, vice-president of the Australian Dispatch Line, operated by J. J. Moore and Company, left Tuesday for Washington, D.C., to be present when bids for the three government-owned steamship lines operating from the Pacific Coast are opened by the shipping board on February 10.

The steamer Eastern Victor of the Dimon Line, bound from Vancouver to the East coast, put in here Tuesday for water. She remained in port only for a few hours.

GOLCONDA REPORTS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Vancouver, Jan. 12.—The private report of W. G. Norrie, the consulting engineer who was sent from Vancouver to examine the Golconda mine in the Coeur d'Alene for a group of Vancouver investors, has now been made public here by W. F. Irwin, of the financial house bearing his name.

Mr. Norrie's first report was:

"Have examined Golconda and find the ore exposed on four levels over an indicated length of 300 feet, with an average width of six feet and a slope distance of 500 feet. Ore in the bottom level recently encountered looks particularly encouraging. Ore occurs in the same formation as all other big producers in the camp, and possibilities for development of very large tonnage laterally upwards and in depth are most encouraging. The 1 000 tons shipped to date in head $11,270, after freight, milling and smelting charges were deducted. This ore is entirely from development this year, and indicates the average net value of the ore so far exposed in the mine. Situation of the property is ideal and conducive to cheap mining. Management is first class, and ample funds are available for immediate erection of the concentrator."

The second report sent from the Golconda, follows:

"I went over Morning Mine yesterday and made re-examination of Golconda to check conclusions. I find that conditions in Golconda are almost identical with those in the Morning Mine, three miles east. The Morning is the most important producer in the Wallace camp, having paid $18,000,000 in dividends to date, and I am fully convinced now that Golconda should become one of the big producers of the camp."

BLACK GOLD MAY SAVE QUEENSLAND

Oil Possibilities Evident in Australian State, Says Ex-Premier

Black gold may ransom the state of Queensland, Australia, from the prison of debt and depression to which it has been confined by an expensive experiment in government ownership and an eighteen-month drought, according to cables received by Digby Denham, ex-Premier of Queensland, who sailed for home on the R.M.S. Aorangi last night.

For more than thirteen years, said Mr. Denham, who retired from public life after the defeat of Liberal administration which he headed from 1911 to 1915, the oil possibilities of Queensland have been evident, but whether the fields were workable was a doubtful matter.

"I have received messages," stated Mr. Denham, "which confirm my earlier hopes. There are quantities of oil in Queensland, but I am confident the discoveries will bring about an era of prosperity.

Robert S. Bain, general manager of the Pacific Cable Board on this coast was also a passenger on the Aorangi.

Mr. Bain, who arrived in Canada from London, has been making an inspection tour of all the Dominion offices, completing his journey with a visit to the Banfield terminal of the cable. He is well-known in this city and during his short stay here has renewed several old acquaintances.

On his way southward, Mr. Bain will visit the Pacific stations of the cable board and will also go to Wellington, N.Z., on Government business before returning to his headquarters at Sydney, N.S.W.

The Aorangi cleared shortly after 8 o'clock last night for Honolulu and the Antipodes. She took a passenger list numbering over 400 and about 3,500 tons of cargo.

Highgate Will Take Oil Cargo To Australia

The British steamer Highgate has been chartered by J. J. Moore & Company to load a full cargo of case oil for Australia, according to telegraphic advices from San Francisco. The vessel will load at that port promptly. The terms of the charter were not announced.

The Highgate, which was in port here for the last two months of 1927, left last week for San Francisco.

ONLY TWO OF S-4 CREW UNACCOUNTED

Fifteen Bodies Recovered Yesterday Bringing Total to Thirty-two

Provincetown, Mass., Jan. 12.—Fifteen additional bodies of men who died seventeen fathoms under water in the broken hull of the sunken submarine S-4, were recovered yesterday by divers operating with the naval salvage fleet.

The number of bodies thus far recovered totals thirty-two. Six of the eight remaining unrecovered bodies are known to be in the air-tight torpedo room, leaving only two unaccounted for.

All the bodies recovered yesterday were found in the engine room and the motor compartment of the sunken boat. The finding of one body on a cot was taken to indicate that this victim was the first to have been overcome and that he was placed there by more rugged mates.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"How can I ride this queer groundhog when he keeps jumping like a frog?" said Clowny as he tumbled off and landed on the ground. Then Coppy said, "It's my turn now. Just watch me and I'll show you how. If you are careful, riding him is very safe and sound."

He jumped astride the little pet and shouted, "I'll stay on, you bet!" Away the groundhog started and the bunch all laughed aloud. Brave Coppy gave them quite a treat for he stuck to his groundhog seat. They clapped their hands when he was through. This made him feel real proud.

"And now that I have shown you how," said Coppy, "who will ride him now?" The bunch looked at each other. Then Wee Scouty bravely said, "I guess it takes a lot of pluck, but I am game. I'll try my luck. I hope he doesn't throw me. I might land upon my head."

He jumped aboard and yelled, "Heave ho," but Mister Groundhog wouldn't go. "Hey, what's the matter?" Scouty said, "And what's this all about?" "I know! I know!" said Carpy, loud. He then explained to all the crowd that Mister Groundhog wouldn't move 'cause he was all tired out.

That seemed a very good excuse to turn the little groundhog loose. It promptly scampered out of sight. Then Clowny said, "Let's run along this winding passageway and see what we can see to-day. It may be we'll discover things to give us heaps of fun."

They traveled on for quite a spell, and then they heard a voice say, "Well, where did you fellows come from? Say, I hope you're friends of mine." They saw a funny man close by. He had a twinkle in his eye. And he was sitting 'neath a door that held an "exit" sign.

(The Tinymites are given a present in the next story).

CUSTARD PIES

If the pie plate used for baking custard and cream pies is heated before the crust is put in, the crust is less likely to become soggy.

To-morrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1928

Good and evil aspects appear in to-day's horoscope, according to astrology, which finds that benefic stars dominate.

In the morning the energies may be stimulated and there may be an urge toward many activities.

It is well to pursue beaten paths, for the judgment may not be reliable under this direction of the stars.

This is not a favorable sway for aviation and presages controversies in Washington regarding Government policies.

Again the seers call attention to the dissemination of all sorts of propaganda inimical to the well-being of the nation.

Mental strabismus is easily brought about under this direction of the stars, which is unfavorable to all who seek public approval.

The seers fortell that the west and especially the Pacific Coast, will exercise extraordinary influence in the choice of the next President of the United States.

Prison patrol systems and the whole penal process of dealing with criminals will be bitterly criticised in the next few months, according to the reading of the stars.

Fashions continue subject to the sway making for more feminine fripperies and more artistic modes.

Modesty is to become desirable as the pendulum of human ideas swings backward, astrologers prophesy.

In 1928 women again will become the subjects of songs and stories that carry the thought of reverence and lasting faith.

The evening of this day is unfavorable to those who desire to win public applause. It may be most discouraging to orators as well as actors.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy, pleasant year in which romance may enter.

Children born on this day probably will be successful in work that demands courtesy and friendliness.

THE STRANGE COUNTESS

By EDGAR WALLACE

Author of "The Missing Millions," "The Hairy Arm," "The Sinister Man," Etc.

Lizzy glanced at her comrade. He was staring open-mounthed into the hall below.

"She is too pretty a girl to lose. Now, Mrs. Pinder, I am going to make you an offer. I want you to take your daughter to South America. I will pay you a yearly sum, more than sufficient for your needs .If you undertake to do that, you will never be troubled again."

Mary Pinder smiled and shook her head.

"Madam, your offer comes too late. Had it been made whilst I was still in prison, had it been supported by any efforts to obtain my release from that cruel punishment, I would have gone on my knees and thanked you and blessed you. But now I know too much."

"What do you know?" asked Lady Moron.

And then Mrs. Pinder began to speak, and as she went on, Lizzy gripped the hand of the man at her side, and laid her face against his arm. He turned round once during the narrative, his weak face transfigured and smiled down at her, as though he read in her gesture all that her heat conveyed. Mrs. Pinder spoke without interruption, and, when she had finished:

"You know a great deal too much for my comfort, madam," said her ladyship's voice, "and much too much for the safety of my friends."

"So I realize," said Mrs. Pinder gravely.

"I repeat my offer. I would advise you to think well before you reject your chance of safety."

"Look here, Leonora——" began Chesney Praye.

"Be silent. I have found one friend to-night—one I can trust. It is not you, Chesney. The doctor has told me all that has happened. You thought you would go behind my back and forestall me. To-night you will do as you're told. Now, madam—do you accept my offer?"

"No," was Mrs. Finder's reply.

Lady Moron turned to the red-faced doctor. He nodded.

"Now, Mrs. Pinder," he said, advancing to her, his tone jovial, his manner friendly, "why can't you be sensible? Do as her ladyship asks you."

"I will not——"

He was near to her now. Suddenly his hand shot out and strangled the scream in her throat. She struggled desperately, madly, but there was no denying those relentless hands. Chesney Praye took half a step forward, but Lady Moron's arm barred him.

And then came the interruption. A wild-looking, dust-stained man unreconizable to any, leaped from the balcony and gripped the doctor by the shoulders from behind. As Tappatt staggered back, releasing his hold upon his victim, Selwyn sprang to the long red bell-cord that hung on the side of the wall, and pulled. From overhead came a deafening clang. Again he pulled.

"You fool, you madman, what are you doing?"

His mother rushed towards him, but he pushed her back. Presently he ceased.

"That's the alarm bell. We'll have all the house and half the village in here in a minute. And I don't want to say before them what I'm saying to you now." He pointed an accusing finger at his mother. "You think I'm a fool, and perhaps you're right. But I'm not a wicked fool, and I'm going to send you and your damnable friend before a judge!"

"Get him away quick!" screamed the countess, as a patter of feet came along the corridor. "I can say it was an accident."

"Don't touch him!"

A girl, almost as great a scarecrow as the panting Selwyn, was leaning over the balcony.

"You can tell them anything you like, but you can't tell them anything they'll believe after they've heard me!"

The door was pushed open at that moment, and a half-dressed man came running in, and stopped dead, gaping at the scene that met his eyes. Almost immediately the doorway was filled with dishevelled men and women.

"Is there any trouble, my lady?"

"None," she said sharply, and pointed to the door. "Wait outside."

She looked up at the girl in the gallery.

"I think you will be well advised to ask my son to change his plans," she said, in the same calm, even voice which Selwyn knew so well. "The matter can be adjusted to-morrow. Selwyn, go back to your friend and take this lady with you."

Mrs. Pinder was sitting on a chair, her frail frame shaking convulsively, while Selwyn strove to comfort her. At Lady Moron's words she stobd up, and, with the man's arm about her, passed into the crowded corridor, and in a few seconds Lizzy Smith had joined them.

CHAPTER XXXVI

Leonora, Countess of Moron, paced her long dressing-room, her hands behind her, a calm, speculative woman, for emotion did not belong to her. Chesney Praye and the doctor she had left in the music-room, and through the windows that overlooked the stone porch at the front of the house she had, a few minutes before, seen the car pass which carried Mary Pinder to happiness and freedom.

Lady Moron felt no resentment against any save the weakling son she had hated from his birth. There was still hope that the wheel would turn by some miracle in her favor. All she had played for, all she had won, was gone. It was the hour of reparation and judgment, not yet for her the hour of penitence.

Opening a little safe that was set in the wall, concealed by a silver barometer, she took out a tiny box and shook on to the table a folded sheet of newspaper and a key. This she put into her bag. From the back of the safe she pulled to view a small automatic pistol, and, jerking the cover to assure herself that it was loaded, fixed the safety catch. This too went into the bag. Then she rang the bell, and her scared maid answered after a long interval.

"Tell Henry that I wish the Rolls to be at the door in ten minutes," she said, and at the end of that time, with her cloak wrapped about her shoulders, she stepped into the car, pausing only to give directions. "Charlotte Street," she said, and gave the number.

She turned over in her mind the events of the past few weeks, striving to discover the key flaw of her plan. Some force had been working against her. Dorn was the instrument, but behind that was a power the identity of which she could not imagine.

The car ran through the deserted streets of Reading along the long road to Maidenhead. Still her problem was not solved. Who was behind Dorn? She had for him a certain amount of admiration. She had known, the moment he came into the case, that the little men who had seemed so big, Chesney Praye and the doctor, were valueless.

The car came noiselessly to the door of Lois Reddle's home. She looked up at the lighted windows and was slightly amused. Selwyn would be there, basking in the approval of the bourgeoisie. Even her feeling of bitterness towards him had been blunted on the journey. This was to be the last throw.

Old Mackenzie, on his way up to Lizzy's kitchenette to brew more coffee, heard the knock and called to Lizzy:

"There's somebody at the door, miss; will you open it for me?"

A transfigured Lizzy, dustless and tidy, ran down the stairs two at a time and pulled open the door. At first she did not recognize the woman, and then:

"You can't come in here, ma'am," she said.

"I wish to see Miss Reddle," said the countess. "Please don't be ridiculous!"

She had still an overawing effect upon Lizzy, and the girl stood on one side, and followed the leisurely figure up the stairs.

The door of Mackenzie's room was open, and as she walked into the chamber, a sudden silence well upon the gathering. She looked from face to face and smiled. But the smile faded when her eyes rested upon the man who sat by the plain deal table near the window.

"Mr. Shaddles!" she faltered.

He nodded.

"So it was you? I might have guessed that."

"Yes, madam, it was I. My family have been the Moron lawyers for hundreds of years, and it was not likely that I should cease to study their interests."

"It was you!" she said again. "I should have guessed that. You opposed my marriage to Lord Moron."

He nodded.

"I should have opposed it more if I had known what I know now," he said. "Will you be seated?"

She nodded and sat down, her bag on her knees, opened. Michael Dorn stood by the lawyer's side, and his eyes never left her face.

"Well, I suppose everybody knows now?" said the countess pleasantly.

"Nobody knows—yet. I particularly asked Miss Smith, when she called on the 'phone, not to tell the story until I came. It is not a long story, madam, if you will permit me?"

She nodded.

"The late Earl of Moron married twice. "By his first wife he had a son, William. By his second wife—which is your ladyship—a son, Selwyn, who is with us to-night. William was a high-spirited, honorable young man, who served Her Majesty Queen Victoria in a regiment of Highlanders. He was thought romantic, and nothing was more natural than that, when he met Mary Pinder——"

"Mary Pinder!" gasped Lois, but he did not notice the interruption.

"——when he met Mary Pinder, who was then a very beautiful girl of seventeen or eighteen, he should fall in love with her. He did not reveal his identity. He had a craze for walking tours, and at the time was traveling through Hereford—not under his own name, which was Viscount Craman, but under the name of Pinder, which was his mother's maiden name. He met the girl several times without telling her who he was, and married her by special licence, in the name of Pinder, intending to reveal his status after the marriage. They had been living together for a month, when he was suddenly called home by the illness of his father, and arrived in Scotland to find the late Earl dying of malignant fever. By a cruel fate, William was infected with the disease and died two days after his father, leaving the widow, ignorant alike of his identity and where he was staying.

A DROP to BREW is costly if they catch you at it. Par is four strokes, according to the puzzle editor's guess on page 18.

D	R	O	P

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN, in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.

2—You can change onl yone letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Bumpity Bump

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"What did you say your name was?" asked Uncle Wiggily who was hurrying into his hollow stump bungalow, after having poured water on the Weasel. The rabbit gentleman had heard some one speak to him as he was about to open the door.

"I am a Frozen Turnip" was the answer. "Please take me in to get warm!"

"Oh, you are Frozen Turnip; are you?" asked the rabbit. "Well, I don't see any little boy or girl who might be called that. I think you are only the wind talking."

"No, really, I am Frozen Turnip!" went on the voice. "I know that, very often, boys and girls who like to sit by the warm fire are called 'frozen turnips' in fun. But I really am one. Look on your door mat!"

Looking there Uncle Wiggily saw a large purple and white Turnip snuggled down in a corner on the mat. The Turnip had a sort of face on one side and its roots were in two parts, as if they had once been legs. While on top was what was left of the leaves, making a sort of cap.

"What do you want, Turnip?" kindly asked the rabbit.

"I want to come in your bungalow and get warm," was the reply. "I am, just what I said I was, Frozen Turnip.

"What do you want, Turnip?" kindly asked the rabbit.

The farmer left me out in the field after he dug me up, with many other brother and sister Turnips. He forgot me. Jack Frost found me and now I am so cold and frozen I don't know what to do. I heard you say you would take the cold icicle in and warm him, so I ran here to wait for you. Please take me in!"

"I shall be glad to let you come in my bungalow and get warm, Frozen Turnip," said Uncle Wiggily, as he opened the door. "But do you know what happened to the icicle?"

"No, but I should say he was sitting by the fire getting warm."

"He tried to do that," said the rabbit, "but he melted into a puddle of water."

"Oh, that couldn't happen to me," spoke Frozen Turnip. "An icicle you know, is nothing but water made into ice by Jack Frost. And there is some water in me—that's why I freeze so easily. But I am not like an icicle. I will not melt if you let me sit by your warm fire."

"Very well, then, come in," invited the rabbit gentleman, and soon Frozen Turnip was in the bungalow, sitting in the chimney corner where the icicle had stood. Around Frozen Turnip gathered the forty 'eleven bunny children—or forty twelve if you count Baby Bunty and I suppose she should be counted.

"What are you going to do with Frozen Turnip?" asked Jingle.

"Is he going to live with us always?" asked Jangle.

"I wish I could live here always," sighed Frozen Turnip. "It is very jolly here and so cozy and warm. If you let me stay, Unkie Wig, as Baby Bunty calls you, I will try to do you a favor."

"Pooh! As if Frozen Turnip could ever do a favor!" laughed Bunty.

"Just you wait and see," said the cold vegetable.

That night, when Mr. and Mrs. Longears, Nurse Jane and the little bunnies went to bed, they were going to leave the Turnip down by the fireplace.

"Oh, but I'll be lonesome here alone," said the vegetable. "Let me come upstairs and sleep in the hall."

So they let him do that. And in the middle of the night the Wolf got into the bungalow and was creeping up stairs to get Uncle Wiggily when the Turnip, who was still too cold to sleep, saw the Bad Chap.

"Ha! Bite Uncle Wiggily; would you!" whispered the Turnip. I'll scare you!" So the Turnip rolled down the stairs, making a great racket and frightening the Wolf so that he howled:

"Who is it, the Police Dog?"

"No, I am Bumpity Bump!" answered the Turnip, bouncing and bumping on the last step. And then he bounced against the Wolf's nose and hurt the Bad Chap so much that away he ran.

"So you see, Baby Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily when he learned what had happened. "Frozen Turnip did us a favor after all."

"So he did! I'm so glad!" sleepily murmured Baby Bunty. Then the Turnip went to sleep, for falling bumpity bump down stairs had warmed him, and the Wolf was left out in the cold, which served him right. So it all happened for the best and if the sparrow doesn't think the chimney on the roof is a toy bank, and drop a lot of pennies down it so the smoke can't get out, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's glasses.

The toy industry of the United States shows an increase of more than 1,300 per cent in the last twenty years.

TRUSTEES PROVIDE MAJOR INTEREST AT SAANICH DISCUSSION

Cloverdale Meeting Featured By First Presentation of Schools Report

Chairman and Audience Join in Hearty Comments on Affairs

Trustee candidates in the Saanich election campaign held a field day last night at Cloverdale School, being given most of the evening when Reeve Crouch and his opponent, Councillor Milne, cut short their remarks. Trustee A. E. Horner presented the school board's annual financial statement, showing school costs of $124,102 as compared with $132,032 in 1926, when Gordon Head School was rebuilt after a fire. Pupils attending Saanich graded schools were 2,218 during 1927.

Provincial grants had totalled $37,230, and the taxpayers had contributed $85,642. Maintenance of the schools had cost $101,450 and high school tuition had required payment to Victoria of $17,833, the trustee reported, regretting that ill health prevented Chairman F. V. Hobbs from personally presenting the report and appealing for re-election.

Trustee Horner strongly objected to accounts for unsatisfactory contracts being paid, despite his refusal to give approval as chairman of the buildings and grounds committee. Trustee Thorpe interjected that the motion to pay the items had been adopted by the whole board.

The candidate believed the cost of education to be growing too severe a burden for municipalities, and advocated that the natural resources should be taxed for school purposes, as recommended in the Provincial Education Survey.

WILLIAM TOMES

William Tomes said his candidature followed failure of the school board to give Saanich resident ratepayers preference in appointments. He recalled his long residence in Saanich, and told of varied activities among children, as Sunday school superintendent, swimming club instructor, outing organizer and similar matters, over very many years. "Trustee Mrs. Beckett, at Marigold, said a janitor had been appointed because he had been a missionary in China and India, and would exert a moral influence on the children. Who knows but if you put me on the school board I may exert a moral influence on that body, they appear to need it. They have not played the game," he said in closing.

WALTER P. JEUNE

Walter P. Jeune, as trustee candidate, referred to his experience as superintendent of the Victoria Steam Laundry plant and delivery system, as evidence of his ability to secure co-operation from the teaching staff if elected.

He outlined a platform featuring co-operation between board, staff, parents, pupil and education department; confidence in employees; principals responsible for discipline and results; principals to be consulted before change in school staffs; monthly check of each grade on file in the board office; uniformity of tests and and marks for each subject in all schools; children in entrance class in September should be encouraged to sit for examination in the following June; encourage sport in schools but not at expense of education; the practice of allowing candidates for positions to canvass members of the board was denounced, Mr. Jeune pledging abolition of the system if elected.

REEVE CROUCH

Reeve Crouch confined his address to a survey of the past year's operation, and a brief appeal for re-election on his record. He pointed out that the Health Centre committee, of which his opponent was chairman, was the only council body to exceed its estimates. The Lake Hill bus service had been equipped with two new buses, fully paid, and a small surplus in cash had also been earned. Reorganization of the Municipal Hall staff had saved nearly $3,000 and would save $6,000 annually, Reeve Crouch remarking "we let those men out because we had not enough work for them to do. They were good men."

He expressed surprise that Saanich had a cash surplus of $22,500, despite a cut in the assessment on land of $2,000,000, and an estimated increase of $7,000 in revenue when the rate was struck.

"The unfortunate thing about this tax on improvements is that it has not benefited the men it was planned to aid. I would not be so dead against it if the small farmers had been aided," said the Reeve, when touching upon taxation. "The beneficiary has been the holder of wild land or big acreage with little improvement, the men we did not want to benefit," he said, noting that lots are assessed at double market value while acreage cannot be bought for three times the assessed values.

Councillor Milne having stated that an organization on his behalf was prepared to transport voters to the polls, Chairman Paterson said he had been informed by Reeve Crouch that he had no such organization but would welcome volunteers with cars on Saturday.

Considerable debate arose over the Lake Hill bus service, Reeve Crouch forecasting early improvement of the service and expressing sympathy with reduction in fares as soon as possible.

COUNCILLOR MILNE

As reeveship candidate, Councillor D. Milne countered Reeve Crouch's criticisms of his attitude on many problems successfully settled by the 1927 council, including reorganization of the Health Centre with employment of a full time medical officer, difficulties incident to remaking the assessment roll with segregation of $2,000,000 improvements from farm lands value, and imposition of a small tax on improvements. "The farmers had been paying taxes on that $2,000,000 for years, that was what they kicked about. The council did the honest thing when it went to the Legislature for time to remedy affairs. That was all we asked for. That was what we got. Had we failed Saanich would have been in the hands of a receiver this year," he said.

"If elected I will exert every effort to create harmony between inner and outer wards," he promised. Questioned by R. S. Forster, Councillor Milne stated that with Councillors McWilliam and Graham he had favored limitation of the improvement tax to ten per cent of values, being corroborated by Councillor Graham. The levy on fifteen per cent had been suggested by Reeve Crouch to terminate a deadlock, he recalled.

N. Weaver interjected: "The people on lots in Saanich were good little mice when they got off for $5 taxes, but they kick when asked to pay, for some of the benefits they get, a tax of $15. Pretty poor sports!"

Chairman J. M. Paterson took the floor to counter assertion by Councillor Milne that no ill-feeling against urban residents exists in rural Saanich. He stated that the farmers of Saanich had not been pioneers in upsetting assessment values, recalling the Rowlands suit of some years ago and the trenchant criticisms of Saanich assessment methods then made by the judge.

"Mr. Tanner of Ward Six tries to give the impression that the urban residents are a bunch of robbers, but you find the $3,000 cars out among the farmers, we in the inner wards have the tin lizzies," Mr. Paterson said.

He declared that the bulk of Government contributions for liquor profits would be awarded the urban wards in the event of secession of farm areas, and believed that the inner wards would suffer little loss by such a change. Mr. Paterson said the farmers are now raising a campaign fund and preparing for further action to forward their case, and suggested that the inner wards take no counter steps. "It looks as though the farmers want to tax our improvements, but keep their own betterments exempt. I do not want to be taken as advocating breaking up the municipality, but I do object to being called a parasite and a robber of my neighbor," he said.

COUNCILLOR SPEAKS

Councillor W. Graham, re-elected by acclamation, thanked the voters of Ward Two for returning him to the council. He recalled that when the council found taxation of improvements necessary, Reeve Crouch had accused him of "flopping," yet when the percentage to be taxed was struck, he had had his vote recorded in opposition to more than ten per cent being taxed. He had also been recorded as opposing the increased authority given Clerk Sewell, recalling, "I told him, 'Dick, I do this for your own good; there is already too much idea that this is a one man municipality.'" The councillor gave Clerk Sewell high praise for his services, citing the remarkable surplus in the sinking funds as evidence.

"I have always thought this secession talk is a sort of club over our heads, although it has cost the farmers $1,500 in lawyers' fees," said Councillor Graham, doubting if the Government will permit secession of rural areas, or if Victoria city would accept Wards Two and Seven.

The regular monthly meeting of the West Saanich W.I. was held in the Institute Hall on Tuesday afternoon with fifteen members present. The newly-elected president, Miss H. Maber, took the chair and the minutes and correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. T. Haddon. A communication regarding the reading of the Bible in the school was received and laid on the table. Rev. J. S. A. Bastin wrote thanking the Institute for the use of the hall for the Anglican Church and Sunday school, and a letter of thanks was also received from Dr. Wace of the Solarium for the $75 proceeds of the recent dance and other donations during the past year. The financial report for the last year was presented by the retiring treasurer, Mrs. W. O. Wallace and showed receipts of $844.59 with expenditures of $819.35, leaving a balance of $24.24. Committees for the year were then appointed. Home economics, Mrs. L. H. McQueen; agriculture, Mrs. J. Osborne; education and public health and child welfare, conveners, Mrs. Guy, Mrs. Creed, Mrs. T. Peden and Mrs. W. Watt; industries, Miss H. Maber; community betterment, institute as a whole. It was announced that Geo. A. Robinson of Elk Lake, the well-known grower of seeds, would address the meeting in February on the subject of seeds and bulbs. Plans for the cabaret to be held on Friday, February 3, were discussed and committees appointed: General convener, Mrs. W. Watt and Mrs. A. Lacoursier, convener for supper arrangements. Mrs. Watt reported that Miss Mona Jewell and pupils would supply a number of fancy dances for the programme. Other numbers would be announced later. It was decided to buy some new dishes for the hall. A pleasing little incident then took place when Mrs. A Guy on behalf of the members presented a gift to the retiring president, Mrs. T. Haddon, in appreciation of her untiring work during the past two years to which Mrs. Haddon responded with a few words of thanks. One new member was welcomed. The meeting then adjourned and tea was served by the hostesses for the day, Mrs. T. Peden and Mrs. J. Osborne and a social half hour spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Collett of Winnipeg are spending several weeks at the beach.

SAYS CANADA NEEDS NATIONAL SPIRIT

The need of a national Canadian spirit was stressed by D. B. Plunkett, former president of the Victoria Conservative Association, in an address before the McBride Conservative Club here last night.

"The demand to-day is for a national sentiment in Canada," he said. "Have that national sentiment taught in the schools. Have a Canadian national anthem taught in the schools, together with the British National Anthem."

The subject of Mr. Plunkett's address was "The Maple Leaf." He traced the use of the maple leaf and the beaver as Canada's national emblems and declared they had been associated with Canadian life since the earliest days of settlement.

Mr. Plunkett advocated the national policy of Sir John A. Macdonald, and advocated higher Canadian tariffs.

P. J. Sinnott, president of the club, presided at the first meeting of the year. He welcomed Miss Lottie Bowron, president of the Women's Conservative Association, and F. S. Elliott, president of the Victoria Conservative Association. Dancing and refreshments followed the business proceedings. Fred Wright and Ernie Impett contributed musical selection.

Happy Valley

Happy Valley, Jan. 12.—The annual meeting of the Luxton and Happy Valley Women's Institute was held in the Luxton Hall on Tuesday afternoon. Owing to the inclemency of the weather a rather small number were present. The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. Robert Brown. The annual report as presetned by the secretary-treasurer is a matter of congratulation to the officers and executive of the institute. Among the many useful activities of the institute were donations to Queen Alexandra Solarium, East Sooke building fund, travelers' aid of Y.W.C.A. and Othen Scott fund. A hamper of provisions to Queen Alexandra Solarium will go forward shortly. The election of officers took place, the president, Mrs. Robert Brown being re-elected as president, also the vice-president, Mrs. Stuart Hutchison, again taking office. The three other directors elected were Mesdames Trace, Baxter and Morrow. At a director's meeting to be held shortly a secretary will be appointed. Afternoon tea was served by members of the Busy Bee Club.

Mr. Bedford, who has been a resident in the valley for about eighteen months, is moving shortly to Galiano Island.

The usual dance held under the auspicies of the hall committee will be held in the Luxton Hall on January 13, from 9 to 1. Charlie Hunt's popular orchestra will be in attendance.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of R. E. Church will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Goodsell on Thursday afternoon, January 12, at 3 o'clock. A full attendance is urgently requested.

Mrs. C. Leadbeater has left the district, taking up residence in Victoria.

All residents of the district are cordially invited to the progressive whist drive to be held Saturday evening, January 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baxter "Deercroft Lodge." Happy Valley. The proceeds of which are for the funds of L. and H. V. Womens' Institute. Prizes will be awarded.

REPORT OF MISSING MAN

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 12.—Word has been received here that David G. Shearer, missing secretary of the Hindoo Koosh Grotto, is in Hollywood, Cal. A former Hamilton woman is said to have written to friends here that she had met Shearer in Hollywood and had conversed with him. The writer had no knowledge of Shearer's mysterious disappearance. Since the secretary vanished some time ago, Grotto officials have been investigating the club's finances, which were under Shearer's stewardship.
